achieve student success. One aspect they are pursuing in a more preemptive approach to assist at risk students before problems develop. Vice President Kabbaz also informed the Committee that the One Stop Shop would launch in November.

Enrollment Update

Vice President Kabbaz introduced interim Director of Admissions and Enrollment Communications, Susan Schaurer, who updated the Committee on Enrollment. Ms. Schaurer reviewed the 2014 enrollment goals; she explained the importance of growing the pool of applicants in order to achieve the desired number of highly qualified incoming freshman. She stated the Ohio trend in high school graduating students shows reduced numbers each year for the next several years, which is particularly challenging for Divisions which support a mostly state-based population of students, such as Education, Health and Society. Given the trend, she stated that to simply maintain the number of Ohio applicants each year would be a success, with the true growth in the pool coming from increases in out of state applications.

Ms. Schaurer also addressed diversity, stating the declining Ohio demographics compound the issue, since Miami’s diverse student body is proportionally more in-state than the student body overall. That said, there has been steady year-to-year progress towards achieving a critical mass of diverse students, even though Miami finds that many peer institutions are able to offer very strong scholarship packages.

Ms. Schaurer also outlined the Fall 2015 goals, and discussed the merit scholarship grid (which will allow greater flexibility), as well as transfer students and articulation agreements. She also highlighted the team effort at Miami and a mindset where faculty and staff all understand that recruitment is everyone’s job, and there is great willingness to meet with interested applicants.

Ms. Schaurer’s presentation is included as Attachment K.

Regional Campuses Update

Dean Mike Pratt, Dean of the College of Professional Studies and Applied Sciences addressed the Committee, discussing an ad hoc report exploring the possibility of greater autonomy for the Regional Campuses in order to better meet the needs of their students and communities. Dean Pratt relayed the following:

As President Hodge articulated in his annual address this month, Miami University has two campuses –The Regional Campuses and the Oxford campus which are complementary but distinct in addressing the mission of our University.

Miami has the distinction of creating the first of Ohio’s regional campuses, Miami University Middletown, which opened in 1966. The Hamilton Campus opened two years later in 1968. The regional campuses were designed for area students bound by place, circumstances or economics and were access institutions offering open admission and a lower cost. They were also feeder schools offering lower division courses as a starting point for students expected to move on to the Oxford Campus. In the 1970’s when selected associate degrees were added, students were able to complete a degree entirely on the regional campuses. This model remained in place until 2008 when the Chancellor and Ohio Board of Regents made it clear that growth in associate's degrees should occur at community colleges, while regional campuses should focus on four-year degrees. Responding to these changes, Miami opened the College of Professional Studies and Applied Sciences in 2013 as the home to existing regional campus degrees and provided limited autonomy to create additional four-year degrees for the regional campuses.

Miami University’s Oxford campus has also evolved - achieving national recognition for our undergraduate teaching, becoming highly selective in admission, increasingly global in scope and expanding the campus. Over the years, the difference in cost between the campuses has also grown.

While complementary and addressing a single mission, the very distinctions that characterize our campuses sometimes present confusing messages to those without (and sometimes within) the University.

Last June, Provost Gempesaw, informed me of some conversations related to seizing the opportunities (while avoiding the pitfalls) provided by increasing differentiation in the ways in which our campuses meet the overall mission of Miami University. Bobby recommended I explore the Indiana University/ IU-East relationship for its ability to provide increased autonomy in academic program development and operation. I created an ad hoc committee of regional campus faculty drawn from both campuses, representative of the variety of our programs and representing all faculty ranks. I charged the committee to gather information on the IU/IU-East relationship and conduct an analysis that anticipates the strengths, opportunities, weaknesses and threats (SWOT), should Miami decide to fit such a model to our reality.

Briefly, the committee found that the IU/IU-East model would indeed provide greater autonomy for academic, faculty and administrative decisions, while retaining overall governance at the Presidential and Board of Trustee level. Core Miami elements- the academic catalog, the general education curriculum, university wide policy and procedures for human resources, financial services, IT services, institutional software, etc. can be applied across the entire university in this model. Utilizing the levels of autonomy inherent in this model, IU-East was successful in building new degrees and expanding enrollment over a relatively short period of time.

However, Indiana University and IU-East are not Miami University and the model does not address some issues that are imbedded in the history of the Oxford-Regional Campus relationship and that are part of the relative proximity of all our educational sites. Salient among them are issues relating to our students and our faculty.

Historically, large numbers of Oxford campus and regional campus students have “swirled” through Miami University. Presently most regional campus students say they intend to complete programs offered only in Oxford; only a minority of our students are enrolled in CPSAS academic programs. Some Oxford academic programs have significant numbers of regional campus students as majors. Many Oxford campus students obtain additional credits by selecting courses on the regional campuses that aren’t available or do not meet their schedule in Oxford. There are commuter lots and convenient bus routes between Oxford, Hamilton and Middletown. These facilitate student opportunities at all campuses. At IU-East, so few students travel to Bloomington that these issues are not significant.

All Miami faculty are connected to their disciplinary cognates through departments and, with the exception of the CPSAS departments, the departments are on the Oxford campus. Faculty hired to the regional campuses have voting privileges, Oxford based laboratories, research and academic support centers, the opportunity to become involved in graduate studies and other benefits of the Oxford campus. Due in part to distance and to institutional history, the faculty at IU-East have no such connection to their colleagues in Bloomington.

In its final section, the ad hoc committee moved beyond my request for a SWOT analysis by recommending pathways to incorporate aspects of the model which might improve the ability of the Regional Campuses to meet the needs of our students, the communities we serve, and our distinct aspects of Miami’s mission. While the IU East model is not a perfect fit, there is reason to think something similar to this model, tailored to fit Miami, might facilitate our ability to meet the goals that the Chancellor and the Ohio Board of Regents have established for increasing Bachelor degree programs on Ohio’s regional campuses. Developing a new model might also bring Miami University back into a leadership role in regional campus operations. There are certainly reasons to think that something similar to this is worth exploring.

The Regional Campus ad hoc Committee report is included as Attachment L.

Provost
Gorman also outlined an initiative regarding the use of carry forward funds to support new interdisciplinary programs. Other Items

Dr. Ron Scott, Associate Vice President for Institutional Diversity, discussed diversity at Miami University with the Committee. Dr. Scott highlighted the Miami 2020 Plan’s foundational goal number two, which not only establishes diversity as a goal for all offices campus-wide, but also sets a tone for collaboration across campus to achieve the goal.

Dr. Scott explained that the Institutional Diversity Office is unique, in that he is free to work across campus with all offices, rather than simply focusing on the management of a staff. He highlighted two tangible signs of Miami’s commitment; the location of the Cultural Center in the very middle of the Armstrong Student Center, and the words of the Code of Love and Honor which fill the wall in the Shade Family Room. Dr. Scott reminded the Committee of the steady forward progress made over the past several years in working toward the obtainment of a critical mass of diverse students, faculty and staff, and that he appreciates the Board of Trustees’ and the University leadership’s support and commitment to this important goal.

Dr. Scott’s written report is included as Attachment T.

Adjournment

With no other business to come before the Committee, the meeting was adjourned at 11:10am for a tour of the Library’s special collections and a ribbon cutting at the Office of Research for Undergraduates.

Section 3. Tenure is a method of assuring academic freedom; that is, the freedom to teach, to inquire, to create, to debate, to question, and to dissent. Tenure represents a long-term financial commitment to the extent allowable under the laws of the State of Ohio. Miami has no specified or implied limits on the percentage of the instructional staff who may be granted tenure. Each candidate for tenure is judged individually, not relative to other candidates. If an individual demonstrates the high quality of professional performance expected by Miami, tenure will be conferred, regardless of how many other candidates may be considered in a given year. However it is not anticipated that all individuals appointed to tenurable ranks will be able to demonstrate the high quality of professional performance required to achieve tenured status.

Section 4. The Board designates the President (or such persons as the President may designate) as the appointing authority for classified employees.

Section 5. The Board designates the President (or such person as the President may designate) as the appointing authority for law enforcement officers.

*Lecturers and Clinical/Professionally Licensed Faculty are members of the Faculty Assembly for the purpose of qualifying them to serve on the University Senate. A. The University Senate delegates its authority in the realm of student social conduct rules and regulations to the Student Affairs Council, a semi-autonomous governing body, which also has legislative authority in the general realm of non-academic student affairs. All actions of Student Affairs Council which have substantial academic content shall be reported to the Executive Committee of University Senate which shall place them on the agenda of the University Senate.

DATE SUBMITTED: September 4, 2013

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Board,

The Associated Student Government is thrilled to be back in Oxford and has already begun work for this year. Over the summer, members of the Executive Cabinet worked hard at home and in Oxford to prepare for this year, and we have already started working on several initiatives.

Elections for members of the Student Senate have just completed, and we are very excited to work with both the On- and Off-campus Senators this year to continue to serve the needs of the student body. Senators will be working with members of the Executive Cabinet on issues including:

- Academic advising
- Student safety
- Parking
- Housing/Dining
- Sustainability (including bike sharing)
- Alcohol
- The I Am Miami initiative
- And more.

As Secretary for Academic Affairs, my main initiative will be academic advising. I have already had several productive meetings with members of administration and numerous constructive conversations with students and members of ASG about advising. We hope to create a more comprehensive model of advising to encompass all aspects of student life, including academics, career, and personal advising. One of the major aspects of advising ASG will be pushing for is the creation of a peer advising system. We believe that as a supplement to professional and faculty advisors, trained peer advisors can provide an added value to a student’s advising experience. Furthermore, I will also be working on improving J-Term class options, looking at Force-Add options for students, and examining how Advanced Placement (AP) credit is awarded.
At the end of each semester, ASG sweeps back any unused money that we allocated to over 400 student organizations. This year, we decided to use some of the money we swept back at the end of last semester to complete some of the unfinished projects in the Armstrong Student Center that required funding. ASG contributed to the completion of the following projects:

At the final meeting of the 2013-2014 academic year, Senate confirmed appointments to standing and advisory committees of Senate and authorized Executive Committee to confirm additional nominations made during the summer months. The standing committees of Senate have broad responsibilities and conduct the continuing and regular business of Senate; the advisory committees are charged with the responsibility to advise appropriate administrators and to report to University Senate on the state of the institution in the policy area for which the committee is responsible. The business of Senate is managed by the Executive Committee as it receives items from Senate committees and the University community. Special reports will be scheduled throughout the year to inform Senate of items of importance to the University.
At the September 8, Senate meeting, Senate will consider a nomination for an honorary degree. Senate’s recommendation will be forwarded to the President and the Board of Trustees who has the authority to grant honorary degrees from Miami University. Senate will hear reports from:

- Learning Management System Update - Beth Rubin, Assistant Provost for e-Learning.
- Enrollment Update – Susan Schaurer, Interim Director of Admission and Enrollment.
- Division of Enrollment Management and Student Success- Michael Kabbaz, Vice President.
- Benefits Update – Dawn Fahner, Director, Benefits Services.

The following are items of business Executive Committee anticipates Senate will discuss during the academic year: new degrees, winter term ad hoc committee report, global initiatives, and global studies unit (implementation of SR 14-01, Consolidation, Partition, Transfer, or Elimination of Academic Divisions, Departments, or Program; Todd Bailey, Process Coordinator).
Student Affairs BOT report September 2014

- We had a very full summer in Student Affairs since the last Board meeting in June. As you will hear more about tomorrow, we welcomed 3,500 students along with about 5,000 of their family members during our 15 summer orientation sessions that take place in June, with the remainder attending our August session. As always, we spent about a month training our residence life staff, both professional and student, before students arrived on campus. We had a very wet, but still very energetic and successful move-in day, followed by hundreds of welcome week events for new and continuing students. And of course we spent a lot of time planning for the new school year.

- As I talked about in June, much of my summer was spent building our team in Student Affairs and getting everyone on the same page. One of the most exciting developments was developing 5 themes for the focus for our work in Student Affairs. These themes—belonging, support, engagement, community and stewardship—all support the metrics laid out in the 2020 Plan. For example, research shows that students who feel that they belong at a college or university are more likely to persist and graduate, so we should put our energies into building an inclusive, welcoming environment where every student feels a sense of belonging at Miami. These themes will help our staff set priorities and give us all a common goal and language for our work. We are now in the process of developing these themes more fully throughout the fall, working toward a Student Affairs visioning document that ties to 2020.

- Also this summer, we filled three key roles in our staff. We hired Christina Carrubba-Whetstine as the Director of the Rinella Learning Center. Christina was serving in the interim role after Linda Dixon’s retirement, and was the clear standout in our interviews. We’ve also hired a new director of Parent and Family Programs following Kris Stewart’s retirement in August following 19 years in that role. Mark Pontious will join us from the University of Utah on October 1, and we’re excited to have him. Parental involvement at the college level continues to increase in ways we couldn’t have imagined 10 or 15 years ago. And finally, Shevonne Nelson joined us this summer as the Coordinator for GLBTQ Services. That is a very visible role that had been vacant for a year following a failed search, and there were many people anxious for that role to be filled—both for her work, and for the visual confirmation that Miami is committed to supporting this population.

- As I discussed in June, we also did some reorganization in the Division, changing some reporting lines to be more logical and conducive to collaboration. We are also adding three new positions where there were some obvious gaps, so we are adding a staff member to the Armstrong Student Center, and an additional programming person in our student wellness office. We also have posted a position that will be responsible for keeping our off-campus students engaged and informed, improve our communications efforts in Student Affairs, and build positive relationships in the Oxford community.

- Another topic that was a focus of our summer and continues into the school year is Title IX and sexual assault. For those of you who followed this topic in the paper, sexual assault has received a lot of attention in Washington in recent months, with new guidelines from both the White House and the Office of Civil Rights, and new proposed legislation in Congress. Building on our past efforts and following new guidelines, we revised our Code of Conduct for sexual misconduct, provided additional training for the disciplinary board members who will hear these cases, and clarified the roles of confidential counselors and other supports available for survivors. We also examined and added to our prevention and education efforts, and students will be holding more bystander training programs this year, and offering other active and passive programs as well.

- The last item I want to update you on today is our new Alcohol Task Force, which was formed this summer and is made up of staff, faculty and students. They have a one-semester charge to create a set of recommendations and develop a plan for the university regarding high-risk alcohol use among students. They kicked off the year with a visit from a consultant, Dr. Thomas Workman, who was on campus last Thursday to Saturday to complete an environmental scan of our campus and Oxford alcohol culture. We expect his preliminary report within the next week, and the task force will use that as a guide of how to proceed through the rest of the term.

- There is much more that I could talk about, but I know my time is up. We have a busy fall ahead of us, and I’m looking forward to a productive and exciting year!

Summer Accomplishments and Highlights

Armstrong Student Center

- With great appreciation for the work of Conferences Services, the Armstrong Student Center hosted events during seven summer conferences held in July and August.

Career Services

- Career Services is launching a new program this fall called the Early Career Exploration Series. The program encompasses five industry clusters and will feature alumni from different majors who have built successful careers in each cluster.
- The Humanities Works Committee, formed last year by the Humanities Center and Career Services has been converted to an employer development committee, enabling faculty committee members to receive stipends from the State of Ohio internship grant awarded to the university in spring 2014. The committee’s purpose is to develop 4-year career development plans for students within the Humanities and partner with employers that recruit Humanities majors.
- Career Services, in collaboration with The College of Arts and Science (CAS) and Second Year Programs, sponsored the second annual LEAP program for CAS students. The program is an intensive, 3-day workshop designed to explore career goals and teach career development skills. The program includes site visits to a technology (GE), industrial (David J. Joseph) and retail (Kohl's) company.
- In collaboration with university Advancement, Corporate Relations and the Alumni Association, Career Services hosted a career networking event in Cleveland for juniors and seniors interested in internships and full-time employment opportunities in the Cleveland area. Over 120 students attended.
- A new Career Services microsite for graduate students went live, providing students with the resources they need to pursue academic and non-academic career paths. The site was designed in collaboration with the Graduate School.
- In collaboration with university Advancement, a special fund to support internships in Detroit has been created. Career Services will manage the student application process.
- Three new career development workbooks have been created to support in-classroom instruction: Telling Your Story helps students translate the skills they have acquired at Miami into an employer elevator speech and prepare for behavioral interview questions. Mapping Your Miami Journey helps students align their interests with potential career paths and connect both to short and long-term goals at Miami. This workbook is being used in the new First Year Experience Program. The Value of Service in Your Career Search helps students translate their service and service learning experiences into real world skills valued by employers. This last booklet was created in collaboration with the Office of Community Engagement and Service.

Community Engagement and Service

- Cost savings strategies continued: Negotiated 2nd year agreement with Public Allies Cincinnati, which provides OCES with a staff resource at a total cost of ~$11K
- Hired Miami alum, Ian Free, who will serve one year as OCES’ Capacity Building Coordinator in the Cincinnati area
Diversity Affairs

- The MADE@Miami program kicked off on Tuesday August 19, 2014, two days prior to the full first-year move in. A total of 188 students participated in the program which included a Family Information Session, a panel that comprised of student affairs and academic affairs professionals, and an evening program for students entitled “Making Connections.” Another highlight of the program was entitled “College Life: We’re Not in High School Anymore” that was facilitated by faculty, and staff. This was one of our largest and diverse groups for the MADE program.

Disability Resources

- The Office of Disability Resources (formerly in the President's Office) and the Office of Learning Disability Services (formerly in the Rinella Learning Center) merged on July 1, 2014 within Student Affairs to become Student Disabilities Services, a one-stop center for students with disabilities at Miami.
- Student Disabilities Services will provide reasonable accommodations and services to ensure equal access to academic programs and University life at Miami.
- Student Disabilities Services is partnering closely with the Rinella Learning Center, New Student Programs, Student Wellness, and many other Student Affairs offices for a smooth transition and collaborative programming for the upcoming year.

Harry T. Wilks Leadership Institute

- The 2014 LeaderShape Institute was held May 18-23, 2014 at Camp Joy in Clarksville, Ohio. Twenty-seven Miami University students participated in this 6-day, intensive, transformational leadership experience focused on leading with integrity and vision.
- On August 18-21, twenty-five incoming Miami University first-year students participated in the 2014 U-Lead program. U-Lead is a 4-day, interactive experience where students learn about leadership through small group sessions, participate in a low and high ropes course, complete a service project, and explore opportunities at Miami and within Oxford.
- The Wilks Leadership Institute distributed 351 StrengthsQuest Assessments and provided several workshop/debriefing sessions in the month of August. Last year, in its first year of implementing StrengthsQuest Assessments on campus, the Institute distributed and debriefed 502 assessments. The Institute is well on its way to surpassing that total from last academic year. Of note, part of its August assessments included 160 Student Managers working in campus dining, the single largest group supported yet. However, we also expect to exceed that number at the Perlmutter Leadership Conference in October.

Myaamia Tribe Relations

There will be 26 Myaamia students enrolled in 2014-15.

- Ten of them are incoming students—nine 1st-year students and one transfer student.
  - Four of the students are MADE@Miami participants.
  - One is a participant in the 2014 Miami Bound: Outdoor Pursuits Experience
- This brings the total of all enrolled Myaamia students since 1991 to 102.
- One senior student has been selected to participate in the BA/MA program hosted by the Philosophy Department. His senior year will be a combination of upper level Philosophy courses leading to the MA in May 2016.
- One of the Myaamia students is an RA in Hillcrest Hall for 2014-15. This person also participated in the summer 2014 Miami in Spain study abroad program.
- Eight of the Myaamia students were counselors at one of the two week-long summer youth camps sponsored by the Myaamia Center. Eewansaapita in Miami, Oklahoma or Eewansaapita in Fort Wayne, Indiana.
Two of the Myaamia students were Miami Tribe team participants in the week-long Breath of Life Archival Institute for Indigenous Languages held at the University of Oklahoma in June.

One student has completed the EMT and Firefighting training and has joined the Oxford Fire Department squad.

To date 6 Myaamia students have inquired about Miami for the 2015-16 academic year.

New Student Programs

- Our 16 summer orientation sessions welcomed 3,332 first-year students, and 3,831 guests, for a total of 7,163 orientation attendees from June 5 to July 3.
- Our August orientation, held August 20-21, included 91 first-years, 105 transfer students, and 181 guests (total attendance of 377). More than half of the students at August orientation were from out of state.
- Welcome Week, which is a collaboration with many offices across campus, kicked off on August 21 with an event at the Goggin Ice Center and Rec Sports Center, attended by nearly all first-year students. Welcome Week continues through September 1, and includes over 100 programs from over 40 campus departments that will introduce new students to college life, campus resources, and the city of Oxford.
- Welcome Week also includes tracks for second year and transfer students.
- Summer orientation included several new elements, including:
  - A new daily orientation schedule that starts in the afternoon of Day 1 – which will allow families to travel to Oxford on the morning of their orientation session
  - Extended interactions for Student Orientation Undergraduate Leaders (SOULs) with small groups of new students
  - Celebration of the anniversary of Freedom Summer with Freedom Summer Tours at each of the sixteen summer orientation sessions
  - The addition of an I am Miami vignette, which opened conversations with new students about the I am Miami movement and the character of the Miami community
  - Two new one-page publications for new students and family members addressing alcohol and sexual assault/sexual violence.
- This spring, we implemented a new online orientation registration system, which allowed us to better plan for individual advising at orientation by setting capacities for orientation registration by academic division.

Parent Programs

- We completed interviews for the new director of Parent & Family Programs, following the retirement of Kris Stewart who served in that role for 19 years. We anticipate having a new director on campus on October 1.

Residence Life

- During Miami’s pre-orientation program held in Beijing and Shanghai this summer, 25 current Miami students, both domestic and international, assisted the Miami delegation in orienting approximately 160 incoming Chinese students and their family members. Rob Abowitz, Associate Director of Residence Life, coordinated this student involvement as part of the delegation’s efforts.

Rinella Learning Center

- The Rinella Learning Center developed and started to implement the new Access Fellows program geared toward serving and supporting low-income students admitted through the Miami Access Initiative (MAI). The program will be welcoming and helping transition to Miami University over 130 new Access Fellows at the start of fall semester.
• The Scholastic Enhancement Program is welcoming 66 first year and transfer students through the program for fall 2014.
• We are pleased to announce that Christina Carrubba-Whetstine became the permanent director of the Rinella Learning Center in August. Christina did an excellent job in her role as interim director, and was the clear standout during our search process. We are excited about her new ideas for the Center, and to have her as part of our leadership team.

Second Year Programs
• Second Year Programs, New Student Programs and the Miami University Art Museum collaborated to offer our first "Out of State Student Picnic" for first and second-year students. The picnic will take place on Saturday, Aug 30.
• We have worked with Outdoor Pursuits to offer the Transfer Connections Trip for incoming transfer and second-year students. This year's trip is over Labor Day Weekend and will be going to John Bryant State Park.

Student Activities and Cliff Alexander Fraternity and Sorority Life and Leadership
• Student Activities worked closely with New Student Programs to offer many of the large scale programs for Welcome Week, including the First Night Block Party, Grillin' with the Greeks, Armstrongpalooza, and Megafair, which allowed 400 students groups to recruit new members for the fall.

Student Counseling Service
• Student Counseling Services is piloting a program for the Just in Case app. The app makes it easy to provide potentially life-saving information to students. Developed for suicide prevention, colleges can adapt the app to also offer resources to students about alcohol and other drugs and sexual assault. Miami University’s app focuses on suicide prevention. The University launched the app during Welcome Week in the fall of 2013. Since then, about 10 percent of the student population has viewed the app. From August 2013 to the end of May 2014, the app has had 8,243 page views from 1,528 unique visitors. The most popular page is the page titled, “I can’t cope….” and the second most popular is “I’m worried about a friend . . .”.

While there is no way currently to know if more students are getting help as a result of the app, this past spring semester set a record for number of students seeking counseling service. Two classes reviewed the app and the feedback received is that they loved it because of the privacy. Students can do a mental health self-assessment privately on their phone and the app can be accessed anytime. It’s a resource 24/7. The students appreciated that.

Kip Alishio, Director of the Student Counseling Service, says the latest research reports in any given year 8 to 10 percent of college students will consider suicide and about 1 percent will make an attempt. “The sooner we can connect with someone and give them an outlet to express themselves and reassure them, the much greater possibility they won’t attempt suicide,” Alishio says. “Early intervention is important.”

Miami’s Just in Case app is funded by a Garrett Lee Smith Memorial Grant for suicide prevention on college campuses. The Just in Case app was developed by eReadia. NASPA. For more information, visit the Just in Case site.

Student Wellness and Education

- This year the HAVEN: Understanding Sexual Assault online education program that educates students about sexual assault in college environments has been extended to include our regional campuses. All first year students are required to participate in the program.

- We are excited to once again be participating in the Welcome Week Thursday night Block Party!

- As a summer project, Assistant Director Leslie Haxby McNeill worked with Dan Stewart, President of Student Senate, to craft messaging for ASG’s new campaign called Know Your Cup, Know Your Limit. The goals of this campaign are to 1) reinforce the information about standard drink size learned in Alcohol Edu, 2) encourage students to practice risk reduction strategies while drinking, 3) encourage students to take action to help students who have passed out from drinking, and 4) to tie the message into the I Am Miami Initiative.

Women’s Center

- The Women’s Center continued to assist patrons over the summer, logging over 100 visitors, including students, staff, faculty, and guests. Guests included Coline Jenkins, President of the Elizabeth Cady Stanton Trust and great-great granddaughter of the famous suffragist.

Collaborative Efforts

- This fall Miami will offer 17 sections of the “I Am Miami” first year experience course to over 300 students in the (first-year) Red Hawk Traditions Living Learning Community. This new course is the culmination of a very close partnership between student and academic affairs, and our hope is for it to eventually be required for all new students. The course covers a wide range of important campus and collegiate transition issues. It provides students with deeper exposure to the philosophy of liberal education; reviews campus support resources; encourages career exploration; stresses the connections and complementarity between academic and co-curricular experiences; and emphasizes personal and social responsibility and what it means to be a positive, contributing member of our campus community. Students taking the course will spend the semester developing an intentional, integrated plan of curricular and co-curricular learning that will guide their educational journey at Miami.

Staff Achievements and Accomplishments

- John Ward, Student Counseling Service Assistant Director for Clinical Services, spent two weeks in Beijing, China, instructing teachers in Mental Health First Aid.

Miami University Campus Safety Report
Board of Trustee Overview
September 2014

This report provides an electronic link to data submitted by Miami University to the Department of Education in compliance with the Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act. As is required of all public and private universities that wish to participate in federal financial assistance programs, statistics are submitted in the following categories of crimes: aggravated assault, arson, burglary, negligent manslaughter, murder and non-negligent manslaughter, motor vehicle theft, sex offenses, non-forcible sex offenses, robbery, hate crimes, arrests for drug, liquor, and weapons violations, and referrals for drug, liquor, and weapons violations.

Below is the link to Miami’s 2013 Annual Campus Security and Fire Safety Report which reports crime statistics from 2010, 2011, and 2012. The data for 2013 will be posted by October 1, 2014 within the 2014 Annual Campus Security and Fire Safety Report. The statistics are divided by campus and organized under the crime statistics tab.

In March 2014, changes to the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) took effect. Miami University is in compliance with the changes and University policies and procedures align with the new requirements. The VAWA changes include the reporting of three new crimes: Domestic Violence, Dating Violence and Stalking incidents. Further, the annual security report must contain a statement regarding Miami’s prevention and awareness programs to prevent domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking in addition to the information already provided on sexual assault. The report details Miami’s initiatives in the areas of:

Prevention and Awareness Programs:
- Orientation (June and August) for new students and families includes information on sexual violence, alcohol and personal responsibility as well as Information on Title IX requirements and the protocol for addressing and reporting acts of sexual violence.
- During the first few weeks of the school year there are numerous reminders to all students regarding safety and personal responsibility.
- Within the first month of the school year students complete an online alcohol awareness program and a program that addresses sexual conduct.
- Off-campus students receive information the first week of classes during the annual walkabouts. Volunteer employees and town residents visit off campus residences distributing information that includes topics of safety and alcohol.
- Ongoing special programming includes sexual assault awareness/prevention for intercollegiate athletics, MARS-Men Against Rape and Sexual Assault and WAVES-Women Against Violence and Sexual Assault for all students and student organizations.
- Distribution of educational information & training (annual briefings, brochures, drills etc.)

There are other online resources for students and families. Additional information on prevention and awareness programs can be found at http://miamioh.edu/campus-safety/sexual-assault/index.html
Student Behavioral Data:
- In the 2013-2014 academic year, the Office of Ethics and Student Conflict Resolution (OESCR) saw an 18% increase over the previous year in the number of violations of the Code of Student Conduct. There continue to be a significant number of cases involving alcohol and the violations for intoxication increased by 27%. The number of drug violations (primarily marijuana) decreased by 15% from the previous academic year.
- There were five sexual assaults reported to the OESCR in 2013-2014, a slight increase over the previous year.
- The number of incidents of physical and mental abuse or harm nearly doubled from the previous year, from 34 to 67. This would include incidents of fighting, verbal abuse, written or verbal threats, sexual misconduct, dating and domestic violence and stalking.
- The Good Samaritan Policy was applied in 57 cases of reported intoxication where a Good Samaritan sought medical assistance for a student.

Crisis Management and Response:
Miami’s response system is comprised of a team of professionals that includes the Title IX coordinator, deputy Title IX coordinator for sexual assault, case manager in the Dean of Students office, director of the office of Ethics and Student Conflict Resolution, police officers, health and mental health providers (when requested). A full description of support services and the Title IX Protocol (formerly the sex offense based protocol) can be found at https://www.miamioh.edu/campus-safety/sexual-assault/protocol.html

Future Trends and Challenges
- Continued expectation for campuses to be safer
- Continue to adopt policies and practices to prevent crimes of violence and to more effectively respond when they happen
- Assessment of policies, programs and response efforts
- Hold offenders accountable and give victims the help they need to physically and emotionally recover.
- Federal agencies will continue to ensure that schools are living up to their obligations

As a part of Student Activities, SLANT Marketing and Design provides student organizations design and marketing services for their campus events and brand management. SLANT Marketing and Design assists student organizations in developing publications, signage, advertisements, social media and brand development and brand enhancement for student organizations at Miami. SLANT Marketing and Design hopes to help student organizations create marketing mediums that will help groups recruit more members; market their mission and purpose; visually have successful events and enhance the student organizations brand on campus.

The Student Engagement and Leadership Workshop Series has been designed over the last year to give student organizations the tools to be successful and to develop student leaders. After the first year of implementation, results indicated that students were satisfied with the series. The biggest themes of what students took away from the programs related to how to use resources (facilities, administration, etc.), organizational operations, ASG funding, and the Hub. The feedback and lessons drove the planning for the upcoming fall series. Workshops are offered twice a month and cover the following topics: Marketing your events, how to schedule space on campus, event planning, how to lead your peers, building your support network, recruitment and retention, the HUB, tips to improve your programs, leadership styles, SMART goal planning and officer transition.
Student Involvement HUB Data
The HUB is our online student organization tool. Through the HUB, recognized student organizations maintain their membership rosters, access budget information, and register their programs. Individuals who sign into the HUB can see all programs happening on campus, and can search for clubs and activities that meet their interests.

* The number of organizations listed here and on page 1 differ due to different dates when the data was pulled.

Note: the number of events registered in the HUB is down this year due to the following:
- We stopped requiring student groups to register tables for slant walk due to the move to Armstrong (over 200 reservations last year)
- We also didn’t require people to register events at Western Lodge or WRA cabin (over 250 event reservations)

Miami University merit scholarships are highly competitive and, thus, not guaranteed. The academic qualifications determining scholarship awards are dependent on the strength of the applicant pool. Priority consideration will be given to students applying for admission by December 1, 2014.

Scholarship offers and award amounts will be determined by a holistic review of the application for admission and thorough evaluation of academic indicators including, but not limited to: rigor of coursework, high school GPA, and standardized test scores. Award determinations will be based on the official testing and high school transcript information received by Miami University at the time of application.

Note: Fall 2015 change includes removing the guaranteed scholarship in each award range.

Miami University Regional Campuses’ Dean’s Ad Hoc Committee

SWOT Analysis of the Indiana University Intercampus Model

Introduction

Miami University leaders identified Indiana University East (IUE) in Richmond, Indiana, as a potential source of information about how Miami can best structure its regional campuses to meet student, community, and state needs in alignment with the Ohio Board of Regents’ goals for regional campuses and Miami’s own Board of Trustees’ goals for the university as a whole.

Indiana University has seven regional locations in addition to its flagship campus in Bloomington, Indiana. IUE was established by the Indiana University Trustees and the state legislature in 1971 although its roots lie with Earlham College going back to 1946. IUE’s original academic mission was to offer associate’s degrees and transfer education.

In 2005, Indiana University released a report describing the process they used to perform mission differentiation among the campuses. That report reflects a mindful process of studying each of the eight locations and considering their role in the IU system, in their communities, and in the state of Indiana.

The Mission Differentiation Report identified challenges to the IU campuses, differentiated their respective missions, and detailed changes that were intended to adapt IU to its changing environment, which included, among other things, a newly formed statewide system of community colleges. In response, IUE quickly changed its mission to a baccalaureate and master’s degree institution. Today, IUE has a student enrollment of approximately 4000 undergraduate students (headcount), more than 100 graduate students, over 50 degree programs, mostly at the baccalaureate level with a few graduate degrees and certificates, and is a member of the NAIA athletic conference. The average class size is 20 students, just over half of whom study full-time. They have 87 full-time faculty, and 117 part-time faculty. The campus has been separately and continuously accredited since its establishment in 1971; in fact, all eight campuses are separately accredited by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools (the same accrediting body for Miami).

Operating as a “university within a university,” the campus is led by a Chancellor, who is appointed by the President and IUBOT upon recommendation by the Executive Vice President of Regional Campus Affairs. Originally, campus chancellors reported to the President of the University. The reporting line changed under the current President to a newly established Executive Vice President for Regional Campus Affairs, who reports to the President.

IUE has four Vice Chancellors (Academic Affairs, IT, Finance, and External Affairs) who report to the IUE Chancellor. The campus’ academic affairs are organized into the following academic divisions (called Schools): Business and Economics; Continuing Studies; Education; Humanities and Social Sciences; Natural Science and Mathematics; Nursing; and Social Work. The organizational chart is available here:

Even though the IU regional campuses are more “autonomous” in their decision-making, they are fully Indiana University in branding and identity. Campus Chancellors are appointed by, and report to, a system Executive Vice President and President. The IU Board of Trustees is the governing authority for all campuses and a member of the IU Board of Trustees serves on each regional campus advisory board. Although a notation appears indicating where degrees are awarded (“given at”), diplomas are issued by Indiana University. Additionally, the campuses share in many university-wide services—such as the Learning Management System (LMS), employment benefits—and general academic and administrative policies. The committee learned that there has been a trend toward centralization of services in recent years. Unlike Miami, however, the campuses are often trusted to implement university policies without ubiquitous oversight.

This Report of this Ad Hoc Committee presents our analysis of the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats of the IU East and the Indiana University model; our consideration of those elements in the context of Miami University; and our recommendations for Miami University leaders.

Notes on the Report

In addition to the 2005 Mission Differentiation Report, interviews with IU officials, and what is available on the IUE website, the committee consulted IUE’s 2011 reaccreditation self-study and interviewed IUE administrative officials. The self-study can be found at:

In the SWOT that follows, observations about IU East and the Indiana University system appear in Roman (regular) font. Observations about strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats in the context of Miami University appear in italics.
Strengths

1. The mission of each IU campus is clearly defined with their relative roles/contributions in the system identified. The IU model of brand differentiation maintains the regional campuses identity as “IU”, regardless of mission differentiation. The committee cautions that any model that would alter the regional campuses name to not reflect a Miami University identity would hinder the campuses, in mission, standards, enrollment, revenues, and community support.

2. Regional IU campuses are trusted to make decisions and to apply university-wide policies.

3. IU employs an organizational structure that more clearly and explicitly outlines decision-making. This is clearer than the current system between MU and MU regional campuses.

4. As a result of each campus doing its own hiring and Promotion & Tenure, IU regional campus faculty are focused exclusively on regional students and they are actively engaged in regional campus curriculum and other academic governance matters.

5. IU regional campus faculty and academic leaders play a greater role in academic decision making, including curriculum and tenure/promotion.

6. IU regional campuses play a significant role in charting their future.

7. IU regional campuses are permitted to design financial, budgetary, and administrative models and policies in a manner that best fits their needs and missions.

8. The use of a common course inventory for all IU campuses keeps all courses “IU” courses.

Weaknesses

1. There has been an increasing centralization of some IU services in recent years, detracting from the relative autonomy of the regional campuses. Further university-wide centralization of services and policies, as opposed to the regionalization of the regional campuses (which the committee believes should continue) could have a detrimental impact to the growth of some regional programs.

2. The regional IU campuses have little input in fees charged for central services.

3. Regional faculty have little in the way of formal connection with departments in Bloomington or other campuses. As applied to Miami’s regional campuses, some regional campuses faculty will oppose disconnecting from Oxford departments and possibly weaken support for scholarship, especially in the sciences.

Opportunities

1. IU’s campuses are geographically distant. The geographic proximity of Miami’s campuses is both a challenge and strength. Miami’s regional impact is strengthened by having two robust campuses and two learning centers. The close proximity of Miami’s campuses and centers is different than the IU system. This will require that some aspects of the IU model be adapted to fit Miami’s needs.

2. The IU model offers their regional campuses the opportunity to better serve the region through greater flexibility in degree offerings, administrative operations, and a faculty and administrative staff that is more mission focused than exists presently at Miami’s regional campuses.

3. The IU model offers the opportunity to maximize the number of degrees conferred across a large geographic area and across socio-economic strata. While an associate’s degree may have been a sufficient level of educational attainment in the 1960’s, the realities of the 21st century and the pressures from the state legislature demand educated citizens who hold bachelor’s degrees. As a state, Ohio ranks 44th in the nation for the number of residents over 25 holding a four-year degree. In Middletown, only 15.1% of the population hold bachelor degrees and in Hamilton only 14.4%. If the regional campuses are to succeed in serving the needs of the citizens in their service areas, we must be allowed to offer bachelor degrees, and select professional master’s degrees, in traditional disciplines as well as develop degrees that reflect a 21st-century education and meet community needs. The demonstrated need for additional bachelor’s and master’s educated people in the region is an opportunity for Miami’s regional campuses.

Threats

1. IUE’s financial health is threatened by Ivy Tech Community College’s increasing presence and by the decreasing number of high school graduates in its service region.

Conclusions and Recommendations

The IU organizational model has merit but will need to be customized to Miami University’s circumstances. The close geographic proximity of Miami’s campuses to one another distinguishes Miami from IU. In many other regards, however, the Universities are similar.
Most significantly, IU Bloomington and, to a lesser extent, IUPUI have a more selective and traditional mission than IU’s open access regional campuses. Other similarities exist, such as the evolution of IU’s regional campuses from transfer and associate degree granting institutions to bachelor’s and master’s institutions.

The committee recognizes that “brand confusion” is an institutional concern at Miami University that strains intercampus relationships and hinders the regional campuses, both academically and financially. The recommendations that follow have been crafted to address brand concern while establishing an organizational model that will give the regional campuses the authority they require to be successful. Many of the recommendations must occur through board of trustee’s mandate, lest they may not be possible or sustainable. To quote one IU regional campus leader, “This must be a revolution, not an evolution.”

The committee recommends the adoption of an intercampus organizational model similar to IU’s, with the following specific recommendations and variations:
1. Remain Miami in identity, core academics, and branding.

   a. Establish a differentiated brand for the regional campuses that identifies the campuses as Miami while distinguishing them from the Oxford Campus, e.g. Miami University Regionals or Miami University Southwest.

   b. Issue Miami University diplomas with either the regional academic college identified, or as it is done at IU, a “given at city/regional brand” notation at the bottom.

   c. Employ the Miami Plan for Liberal Education for all Miami University students seeking bachelor degrees. To facilitate University-wide support and standards, the regional campuses would be expected to appoint faculty to teach Miami Plan (MP) courses who possess the credentials required by the appropriate Oxford departments. This would require vetting through said departments. Additionally, the regional campuses should use syllabi for MP courses that are approved by the appropriate Oxford departments/LEC. Because the MP would be a University-wide curriculum, the regional campuses should have representation on the MU Liberal Education Council.

   d. Aggressively market the differentiated regional campus brand within the region and in the case of online programs, beyond.

2. The regional campuses remain true to their historic open access and opportunity mission and focus on serving the needs of their communities and those in their service area.

   The regional campuses of Miami University were established in the 1960’s to ensure accessible and affordable access to a high quality liberal education for those citizens who were geographically place-bound and who faced socio-economic challenges. Today in the 21st century, we still deliver accessible and affordable liberal education with the same tradition of Miami excellence to our region’s residents, many who are first-generation college students and who are still diverse, geographically place-bound, and facing economic challenges that prohibit them living and participating fully in a more traditional, residential university setting.

3. Because of the geographic proximity of the regional locations, the regional campuses must act as one unit to avoid competition, to better serve students, and to maximize faculty, staff, and physical resources. Therefore, the regionalization process should continue, bringing the Hamilton, Middletown, VOALC, and Greentree locations closer together, administratively and academically.

4. Organize the regional campuses within Miami University in manner similar to Indiana University’s regional campuses, including:

   a. By MUBOT resolution, define and endorse the mission of the regional campuses.
b. By MUBOT resolution, specify lines of decision making for both academic and administrative matters, where the regional campuses will use University-wide services, and define a process (that involves the regional campuses) that will be used to determine how charges for University-wide services will be determined.

c. By MUBOT resolution, restructure the regional campuses as a separately accredited (by the Higher Learning Commission) division/subsidiary unit of the University. The committee is not recommending that the regional campuses remain a division of academic affairs, which is true of the College of Professional Studies and Applied Sciences. Instead, the campuses, acting as one, should become a subsidiary unit of the University with a vice presidential level executive (e.g. chancellor, vice president) and appropriate regional campus divisions led by vice chancellors/associate vice presidents, e.g. academic affairs, business affairs, student affairs, advancement and development, information technology. Furthermore, the regional campuses academic affairs division should be structured to include two or more colleges (schools in IU parlance), led by deans, including the College of Professional Studies and Applied Sciences, to give all regional campus faculty and regional campuses degree programs an appropriate disciplinary home. Abolish the regional campus coordinatorships in favor of appropriate disciplinary departments. Where necessary, combine related disciplines into one department as has been done in the coordinatorships.

d. Formally appoint a member of MUBOT to serve on a regional campus Citizens Advisory Board.

e. Establish a regional campus counterpart to the MU Senate (e.g. regional campus senate or assembly) and other academic structures to review curriculum and degree program proposals. Change the approval process for new courses and degree programs that originate at the regional campuses to follow this path: regional campus department, regional campus college, regional campus senate/assembly, regional campus executive, MU Provost, MU President, and MUBOT.

f. Revise the promotion and tenure process so recommendations advance from the regional campuses to the MU Provost, MU President, and MUBOT.

g. Appoint all regional faculty into regional campuses departments and colleges (or just into schools, as is true at IUE). The committee recommends consideration of some form of Oxford department status for faculty who are members of a counterpart regional department.

h. Trust the regional campuses to implement university-wide administrative policies.

i. For efficiency and fairness, centralize select services and policies such as employment benefits and IT operating systems (Student Information System (Banner), Financial Systems, LMS, OhioLink). Involve the regional campuses in the fee setting for such systems. It is cautioned, however, that the choice of services to centralize should be carefully considered. For example, the regional campuses have been leaders and innovators in the area of online education within the institution, and centralization of online education policies and technologies could slow the ability of the regional campuses to respond quickly to the online educational needs of their communities.

j. Require Regional campus input (at meetings or as representatives on committees) whenever any policy or change in practice that will impact the Regional campuses is considered. For example, to facilitate intercampus collaboration and communication, involve Regional campus deans in the University Council of Academic Deans.

k. Where physical facilities (e.g. science labs) or other resources at the Regionals are inadequate, negotiate the continued use of Oxford Campus resources while building capacity at the regional campuses.

5. Authorize the regional campuses to expand degree offerings to include associate’s and bachelor’s degrees that satisfy the needs of students in the region (including degrees that may be similar to those offered in Oxford, provided a different population of students is being served) and master’s degrees that do not duplicate those offered by the Oxford Campus.

6. Enable the regional campuses to act swiftly in marketing, using its differentiated brand. The committee recommends the IU model, where the regional campuses would submit annual marketing plans (developed within the MU branding and marketing guidelines) to University officials for review and thereafter, the regional campuses would be free to market their programs under the regional campus brand.

7. Establish a strategic plan for the regional campuses, following any change in organizational structure, involving all stakeholders (faculty, staff, students, leaders, community representatives), to be approved by the President and MUBOT.

Key Highlights

Enrolling Class of 2018 (as of August 2014)

After receiving a record-number of applications for fall 2014, we welcomed the newest members of the Miami community to campus on August 21. With more than 3,600 enrolled students, the Class of 2018 is one of the most academically-talented and diverse classes in the institution’s history. More than 43 percent of students are from outside the state of Ohio, representing a total of 39 states and 31 other countries. Nearly 13 percent of students are from underrepresented backgrounds and an additional 7.4 percent are international students. The class also touts the highest incoming ACT composite score on record, with an average of 27.7. Of this year’s class, 29 percent scored a 30 or higher on the ACT and 38 percent scored a 29 or higher.

One Stop for Student Success Services - Opening Fall Semester 2014

The One Stop for Student Success Services will serve as the virtual and in-person service center for the Miami University community by providing superior online, email, in-person, telephone, and outreach student-centric services. We will provide essential information, counsel, and facilitate problem resolution for current and former students, parents/families, alumni, faculty and staff, and the broader university community in the areas of registration, financial aid, student records, billing, and payment. Projected to open late fall 2014, the One Stop will be located in the north end of the Campus Avenue Building. More information will be shared as the opening date is confirmed.

Student Success Collaborative Fall 2014 Pilot

We have partnered with the Education Advisory Board (EAB) to increase student success. EAB offers best practice research, consulting, and technology-based solutions to its member institutions. This fall, Miami is initiating EAB’s Student Success Collaborative, a web-based platform that combines historical student data, predictive analytics, and career counseling information into a single advising tool. Miami is piloting this new platform for undeclared students in the College of Arts and Science, and nursing and psychology students in the College of Professional Studies and Applied Sciences.
Office Updates

Admission

- The inaugural sessions of the Summer Scholars Program (SSP), a residential academic experience for high-ability, rising high school juniors and seniors were completed. In the first year, SSP had a total of 254 participants enrolled in 21 different academic modules across two two-week sessions. Of those participating, 55 percent were Ohio residents and 45 percent were non-residents representing 22 different states. Nearly 20 percent of Summer Scholars attended the program as a result of 41 need-based scholarships funded by Key Bank, M2SE, Miami University, and the Scioto Foundation.

- We hosted a record number of visitors during the month of July. More than 5,000 guests participated in one of the daily information sessions or a Thursday evening Tours and Tunes event which culminated uptown at the Oxford Summer Music Festival.

- Recruitment efforts for Fall 2015 are in full swing. We currently have recruiters conducting high school visits and attending college fairs throughout the state of Ohio, across the US and around the globe. While travel plans are still being finalized, we currently have more than 1,200 high school visits planned this fall.

Bursar

- Using the feedback from many parent payers we implemented an enhancement to the current Student Account Center for students. Beginning in fall 2014, we have included a static student statement along with the other on-line real time activity overview included in the Student Account Center. This is available for both the student and any authorized family member.

- We continue to actively engage in the implementation of ongoing LEAN projects. To date, we are leading one active project, are participating in two projects, and have plans for several more in the near future.

- In partnership with our vendor, Tuition Management Systems, we have been able to improve proactive notifications to students regarding their pending bill. This has also allowed us to notify authorized family members as well. This enhancement has been instrumental in allowing us to notify the students prior to the cancellation date for non-payment.

Registrar

- University Registrar, along with CEC Capstone students, are leading a project that enables Miami to validate any aspect of the University's entire portfolio of classes across the schedule. For example, are 90 percent of a department’s class offerings within approved timeblocks, are classes equally distributed across days of the week and times of the day, and how are Miami Plan classes distributed.
• Winter Term 2015 registrations continue with almost 1,900 students registered for over 2,400 sections. This fourth term of opportunity has 342 class offerings and first-year students are able to register beginning October 6.

• Degree audit enhancements continue and we are in the final testing of software which enables departments and programs to build academic roadmaps on a term-by-term basis, and students to build academic plans term-by-term to stay on track for timely graduation with assistance from academic advisors.

• Automation of paper and people intensive processes continue under LEAN principles, including student change of major/minor, student drop/add via online faculty rosters, and online independent work (study, reading, internships) processes.

• We are now supporting online transcript ordering through electronic copy processing between Ohio public institutions. This replaces paper copies being printed and mailed. A future Ohio Board of Regents’ related initiative will allow high school transcripts to be sent electronically between Ohio high schools and Ohio public colleges and universities.

Student Financial Assistance (SFA)

• SFA in conjunction with the Bursar, coordinated a calling campaign to boost retention efforts:
  - We ensured that we called 204 students who did not enroll for fall 2014 to determine if they intended to continue their enrollment and to offer any assistance to help them return.
  - After the fall bill due date, we called nearly 300 students with unpaid accounts.
  - For students with high-need, in many cases we proactively awarded additional need-based grants to assist our Miami families who continued to owe a balance beyond the bill due date.

• Summer continues to be the busiest time period for us. Between June 1 and August 30, we personally responded to nearly 2,000 emails. During this same period, we received just over 13,000 incoming calls.

• SFA continues to focus on LEAN initiatives. In early September, an SFA staff member began the process to become LEAN certified.

Student Success Center

• We are in the process of creating a student success office that coordinates defined and targeted retention efforts. These efforts supplement academic advising and other student services throughout Miami by increasing outreach and support services for all students.

• A new position, Student Success Manager, was offered and accepted with a start date in early fall. We will hire three additional coordinator positions this fall.
Enrollment Operations (Including One Stop for Student Success Services)

- We implemented a new recruitment/admission database system (Technolutions Slate) that allows prospective students to easily schedule visits, submit application materials, check the status of their application, and view their decision online.
- Document scanning and data entry is now outsourced to increase efficiencies of application materials processing and eliminate backlog of data entry that occurs around application deadlines.
- We are improving technical support services and technology standards throughout EMSS:
  - Consolidating all EMSS technical project management
  - Developing equipment lifecycle/use policies
  - Standardizing technical aspects of onboarding employees and decommissioning equipment when employees leave EMSS
2014 September Issue

Welcome

Dear colleagues,

I hope that, despite the sudden change in plans, you were able to listen to the moving convocation remarks by our guest speaker, Bruce Watson, author of the acclaimed book, Freedom Summer. Mr Watson not only provided us with powerful testimony about a crucial episode in the American civil rights movement, but he also inspired all of us to consider the meaning of freedom, ponder our deepest beliefs, and reflect on ways that we can shape our lives toward greater purpose. I hope that you will dedicate this semester to building on the dreams sparked by the Summer Reading Program book and the momentous lessons gained from the events in the summer of 1964.

I am pleased to provide the September issue of this e-newsletter to keep you informed of new initiatives, changes, and key reminders and events related to Academic Affairs.

Sincerely,
Ray Gorman, Interim Provost and Executive Vice President,
Academic Affairs

Enrolling Class of 2018

After receiving a record-number of applications for fall 2014, the University welcomed the newest members of the Miami community to campus on August 21. With more than 3,600 enrolled students, the Class of 2018 is one of the most academically-talented and diverse classes in the institution's history. More than 43 percent of its students are from outside the state of Ohio, representing a total of 39 states and 33 other countries. Nearly 13 percent of students are from underrepresented backgrounds; an additional 7.4 percent are international students. The class also touts the highest incoming ACT composite score on record, with an average of 27.7. Of this year’s class, 29 percent scored a 30 or higher on the ACT and 38 percent scored a 29 or higher.

One Stop for Student Success Services - Opening Fall Semester 2014

The One Stop for Student Success Services will serve as the virtual and in-person service center for the Miami University community by providing best in class in-person, telephone, email, online, and outreach student-centric services. It will provide essential information, counsel, and facilitate problem resolution for current and former students, parents/families, alumni, faculty and staff, and the broader university community in the areas of registration, financial aid, student records, billing, and payment. Projected to open late fall 2014, the One Stop will be located in the north end of the Campus Avenue Building. More information will be shared as the opening date is confirmed.
Interdisciplinary and Innovation Fund

Miami faculty will be invited this year to submit proposals for seed funding for broad, pioneering teaching, learning, or research–related programs and activities that are interdisciplinary and involve faculty from multiple academic departments and programs across the university. Made possible through a joint venture of the Office of the Provost and the academic divisions, up to $1 million will be available in funds. To be considered for an award, applications must provide a realistic plan for sustained funding or support beyond the end of the award and demonstrate how the award will make a difference in advancing the University mission and the goals of the Miami 2020 Plan. A call for proposals will be forthcoming in the next month.

Office of Research for Undergraduates

A ribbon-cutting ceremony for Miami University’s new Office of Research for Undergraduates (ORU) will take place on September 18, following a meeting of Miami’s Board of Trustees. Housed on the first floor of King Library, the office includes an impressive and flexible new "advanced inquiry space" that can be configured to serve a number of purposes, ranging from classroom instruction to events such as receptions and poster sessions. The ORU is led by director Joe Johnson, Naus Family Faculty Scholar and professor of psychology, as well as Martha Weber, the current coordinator of undergraduate research. The ORU will provide a "one stop shop" for students across all stages of the research process, from getting started, to finding funding, to publication and presentation. It will administer existing OARS programs (e.g., Undergraduate Summer Scholars, Undergraduate Research Awards, etc.) in addition to providing central advocacy, marketing, and coordination of research and creative activity already widespread across Miami. Faculty are encouraged to keep the ORU in mind when advising students and while including students in their research and creative activities.

Learning Management System Update

Initiated last January, the Learning Management System (LMS) Review Committee was chaired by Beth Rubin (assistant provost) and included faculty (Jason Abbitt, Mike Brudzinski, Al Cady, Bruce D'Arcus, Michele Dickey, Michele Gingras, Lynette Hudiburgh, Norm Krumpe, Tom Mayes, Mark McBride, Glenn Platt) and staff (Jason Cardoso, Kent Covert, Janet Hurn, Pete Natale, Lisa Santucci) from across the University. After reviewing and researching multiple vendors and conducting extensive evaluations on two systems—Desire2Learn and Canvas—the committee has recommended Canvas for adoption.

Initial implementation will focus on online and hybrid courses, conducted through a phased process in 2014–15. Implementation teams have been formed to oversee this process. Faculty participating in the pilots will receive training and support in re-creating their courses. Niihka will continue to be available to all faculty and staff for the foreseeable future, and Canvas will be available for all faculty to explore later in the academic year.

Departmental Governance Guidelines
The Council of Academic Deans in consultation with the General Counsel have developed guidelines for departments to consider when drafting or amending departmental governance and policy documents. The goal of these guidelines is to ensure that the process of drafting and amending these documents is open and transparent and that the documents conform to and will be interpreted in a manner consistent with all divisional and University policies, procedures and rules and follow all applicable state and federal laws, including anti-discrimination and equal opportunity laws. The departmental governance and policy document and any substantive amendments to it must be approved by the divisional dean and the Office of the Provost. The guidelines can be accessed on the Office of the Provost website on the Policy and Governance page.

PLA with a Purpose

The Ohio Board of Regents (OBOR) has launched a new initiative called “PLA with a Purpose.” PLA stands for Prior Learning Assessment and is the term used to describe the evaluation of learning gained outside a traditional academic environment for college credit, certification or advanced standing toward further education or training. OBOR has asked Ohio public universities and colleges to create several means for incoming students to apply for credit for learning gained from particular life experiences, such as military service or professional training. These approaches may include: (1) awarding of credit for particular scores on either in–house or standardized examinations, such as CLEP; (2) establishment of course equivalencies for particular experiences (e.g., credit for certain courses for military training); and (3) submission and approval of a portfolio that demonstrates mastery of competencies for a particular course or courses. A small planning group, chaired by Associate Provost Haynes, will develop recommendations for how to address this requirement this year.

Increased Compensation for Part-Time/Contingent Faculty

Because Miami’s part–time or contingent faculty play an important role in advancing our educational mission, the University recently took steps to provide a greater level of compensation to faculty teaching on a credit hour or course basis as a way of recognizing their contributions. Effective this semester, the rate for first instructional appointment of teaching on a credit hour/course basis will remain at $700. The rate of $800 will be given for subsequent instructional appointments up to the completion of six semesters or terms, beginning with appointments for fall semester, 1999; and the rate of $850 will be awarded for instructional appointments after the completion of six semesters or terms, beginning with appointments for fall semester, 1999. A rate of $1000 will be given for instructional appointments in speech pathology & audiology (certification requirement), studio courses in the College of Creative Arts, and a re–hired Professor Emeritus/a (with a required 26–week break from full–time employment before being re–hired). No plans are in place to increase the number of contingent faculty.

Student Success Collaborative Fall 2014 Pilot

Miami University has partnered with the Education Advisory Board (EAB) to increase student success. EAB offers best practice research, consulting, and technology–based solutions to its member institutions. This fall, Miami is initiating EAB’s Student Success Collaborative, a web–based platform that combines historical student data, predictive analytics, and career counseling information into a single advising tool. Miami is piloting this new platform for undeclared students in the College of Arts and Science, and nursing and psychology students in the College of Professional Studies and Applied Sciences.

Additional Reminders

Faculty Assembly meeting will be held on September 16, at 4:00 pm in 100 ART. Among other topics, the meeting will be devoted to recognizing the winners of a variety of university awards, including the Excellence in Academic Advising Award, the Career Development Award, the Distinguished Scholar Award, and the Distinguished Teaching Award.

Workshop on Preparing for Tenure and Promotion for Assistant and Associate Professors will be held on Friday, September 26 from 12:00–1:30 pm in the Shriner Center Heritage Room. Please RSVP to Carolyn Haynes, Associate Provost, haynesca@miamioh.edu.

Workshop on Understanding the Promotion Process for Lecturers, Clinical & Professionally Licensed Faculty will be held on Tuesday, October 7, 2014 from 12:00–1:30 pm in Shriner Center, Heritage Room. Please RSVP to Carolyn Haynes, Associate Provost, haynesca@miamioh.edu.
RESOLUTION R2015-xx

BE IT RESOLVED: that the Board of Trustees hereby approves the conferring of all appropriate degrees, honors, and distinctions, as recommended by the Faculty Assembly, for all Commencement exercises scheduled during the 2014-2015 academic year.
RESOLUTION R2015-xx

BE IT RESOLVED: that the Board of Trustees hereby approves the awarding of an honorary degree of Doctor of Science (Sc.D.) to:

Dr. George Archibald

Dr. George Archibald, internationally-known conservationist and a founder of the International Crane Foundation has positively and significantly enhanced the sustainability of many crane species, likely preventing the extinction of the Whooping Crane. Miami University holds a unique and special interest in Dr. Archibald’s laudable efforts, as cranes are a culturally significant aspect of the Myaamia culture. The Sandhill Crane, cecaahkwa, is the contemporary symbol of the tribal nation, and its significance is preserved in the Miami Tribe’s seal. The award of this degree celebrates and recognizes the great importance and substantial impact of Dr. Archibald’s life-long work.

UPDATE ON RE-ACCREDITATION PROCESS

Miami University
September 2014

Prepared by Carolyn Haynes, Associate Provost

OVERVIEW OF THE RE-ACCREDITATION PROCESS

In July 2011, Miami University signed an agreement with the Higher Learning Commission for Miami to be one of twenty institutions to pioneer “Open Pathway,” a more streamlined, ongoing and electronic means for reaffirmation of accreditation than the traditional “Program to Evaluate and Advance Quality” (PEAQ) used in the past.

Open Pathway entails a ten-year cycle with two key components:
1) Assurance Process which includes brief electronic arguments with key supporting evidence focused on each criterion and stored in an electronic warehouse; and
2) Improvement Process which showcases the institution’s efforts at self-enhancement and innovation.

IMPROVEMENT PROCESS

The Higher Learning Commission assigned this cohort of Open Pathway pioneers a special improvement project: to examine the Degree Qualifications Profile (DP) promoted by the Lumina Foundation http://www.luminafoundation.org/publications/special_reports/degree_profile/. The Degree Qualifications Profile is a tool developed by the Lumina Foundation to illustrate concretely what students should be expected to know or do when they graduate with an associate, bachelor’s or master’s degree. The Higher Learning Commission is exploring whether and how the Degree Qualifications Profile should be incorporated into the accreditation process. It is seeking the input of institutions with a strong accreditation history to offer feedback on the DP.

The profile includes five categories or areas of learning: (1) integrative knowledge; (2) specialized knowledge; (3) intellectual skills; (4) applied learning; and (5) civic learning.

Each area of learning contains associate, bachelor’s and master’s degree outcomes. To test the Degree Qualifications Profile, Miami University held over 30 focus group sessions on the Degree Qualifications Profile with students, faculty from all associate, bachelor’s and master’s degree programs as well as Student Affairs staff and parents. In our September update, we shared the key findings of the focus groups. The final report is being drafted and will be submitted to the Higher Learning Commission this summer.

Miami University submitted its final report in May 2013, and in November 2013, we received official approval from the Higher Learning Commission. Thus, the portion of the re-accreditation process is complete.

ASSURANCE PROCESS

The Assurance Process entails three major components:

1) Creating a set of narratives that address each of the five criteria. Each of the five criteria also includes a set of 12-20 related points known as “core components.” A narrative as well as evidence supporting the claims made in the narrative are developed for the core components of each criterion and loaded into an electronic evidence file that is administered by the Higher Learning Commission. The five criteria are:

- The institution’s mission is clear and articulated publicly; it guides the institution’s operations.
- The institution acts with integrity; its conduct is ethical and responsible.
- The institution provides high quality education, wherever and however its offerings are delivered.
- The institution demonstrates responsibility for the quality of its educational programs, learning environments, and support services, and it evaluates their effectiveness for student learning through processes designed to promote continuous improvement.
- The institution’s resources, structures, and processes are sufficient to fulfill its mission, improve the quality of its educational offerings, and respond to future challenges and opportunities. The institution plans for the future.

2) Responding to a set of federal compliance requirements which focus on: assignment of credits, program length and tuition; institutional records of student complaints; publication of transfer policies; practices for verification of student identity; Title IV program responsibilities; required information for students and the public; advertising and recruitment materials; review of student outcome data; and standing with state and other accrediting agencies.

3) Ensuring that the University is engaging in a set of “assumed practices” which are articulated by the Higher Learning Commission. These practices focus on ethical and responsible conduct; resources and support for teaching and learning; evaluation and improvement of teaching and learning; and resources, planning, and institutional effectiveness. These are considered foundational to the criteria and are typically matters of fact.

During the summer of 2014, Associate Provost Carolyn Haynes completed full drafts of all three major components listed above. Appropriate portions of these documents are currently being vetted by key leaders across the University. These materials will be revised by the end of the fall semester. The winter term will be devoted to polishing the materials, ensuring that they are loaded into the electronic system, and finalizing all details of the review team visit which will occur on April 26-28, 2015.

Special thanks should go to Eric Resnis of the University Libraries & CELTUA for his assistance in collecting and organizing data needed for the assurance process and to the members of the Accreditation Steering Team:

1. Belinda Barr, Assistant Dean for Access and Assessment, University Libraries
2. Mike Curme, Dean of Students
3. Diane Delisio, Associate Dean, College of Engineering and Computing
4. David Ellis, Associate Vice President, Finance & Business Services
5. Susan Ewing, Associate Dean, College of Creative Arts

12. Tim Greenlee, Associate Dean, Farmer School of Business
13. Judy Rogers, Associate Dean, College of Education, Health, and Society
14. Eric Resnis, University Libraries and CELTUA

Appreciation should also be given to all of the vice presidents, associate vice presidents, deans, and other leaders at the University who have assisted in the review and revision of the accreditation materials.

CONCLUSION

Miami University is in the final stages of its 2015 application for reaccreditation. I believe that we are successfully meeting the HLC accreditation criteria and core components.

However, a few areas for improvement remain and may appear in the review team’s report:

1) Securing annual assessment reports for all undergraduate and graduate degree programs from academic departments and programs, and implementing an ongoing review process to ensure high quality assessment and use of data for program improvement;

2) Creating a comprehensive plan for distance delivery courses and oversight of them to ensure quality and consistency; and

3) Creating a comprehensive plan for promoting a diverse body of students, faculty and staff and cultivating an inclusive climate;

4) Instituting a consistent university-wide protocol for handling student complaints that do not fall under the purview of established procedures (e.g., academic grievance, Title IX, EthicsPoint).

Some action steps that are underway to address these concerns include:

- A new ongoing procedure for review of assessment plans and reports conducted by divisional curriculum committees and incorporated into academic program review was recently approved by the Council of Academic Deans;
- Plans for distance and hybrid learning are being constructed under the leadership of the new assistant provost for e-learning;
- Strategies related to the second foundational goal of the Miami 2020 Plan (which relates to inclusion and diversity) have been developed by all divisions and departments.
- A protocol for handling student concerns is being reviewed by the Council of Academic Deans and the President’s Executive Committee for immediate implementation.

Diversity and the University Mission and Values

The Miami University mission and its interwoven connection to diversity is featured in every major document, including the General Bulletin, Miami University Policy Manual, student handbook, on various pages of the University and Unit web sites, and articulated at public venues, such as recruitment events, orientation, convocation, commencement, and presidential addresses. The mission is also embedded in other core statements, including the vision, diversity, and values statements.

Developed in 2007, the vision statement was designed to ensure that Miami continued to build upon its historic strengths while also taking concerted strides toward future improvement:

"Provide the best undergraduate experience in the nation, enhanced by superior, select graduate programs."

Two additional core statements, “Values Statement” and “Statement Asserting the Respect for Human Diversity,” which complement the mission, were approved in 2002 and 2004, respectively. In 2013, the values statement was recast as the Code of Love and Honor, which is part of the I Am Miami initiative. Since then, students have been introduced to the code at summer orientation and given a wallet size copy at the convocation ceremony, and it is reinforced on the university website, in messaging across the University, and at other key events, including commencement and the 2013 presidential address. Used to assert our traditions and define the culture to which we aspire and who we are as Miamians, the code reads:

I Am Miami.
I believe that a liberal education is grounded in qualities of character and intellect.
I stand for honesty, integrity, and the importance of moral conduct.
I respect the dignity, rights, and property of others and their right to hold and express disparate beliefs.
I defend the freedom of inquiry that is the heart of learning.
I exercise good judgment and believe in personal responsibility.
I welcome a diversity of people, ideas, and experiences.
I embrace the spirit, academic rigor, opportunities, and challenges of a Miami Experience, preparing me to make the world a better place.
I demonstrate Love and Honor by supporting and caring for my fellow Miamians.
And because I Am Miami,
I act through my words and deeds in ways that reflect these values and beliefs.
With a deep sense of accomplishment and gratitude,
I will Love, Honor, and make proud those who help me earn the joy and privilege of saying,

The mission and core statements all focus on the key tenets of a liberal education, including integrity, freedom of inquiry, scholarly inquiry and academic excellence, inclusion and diversity, moral character, and personal responsibility.

These tenets as well as the overall mission have formed the bedrock of Miami’s planning efforts, including the First in 2009 Goals (2002-2008), the Five-Year Strategic Goals (2009-2014), and the current Miami 2020 Plan.

Created by President Jim Garland, the First in 2009 plan focused on building innovatively upon the traditional hallmarks of the Miami educational experience and encompassed eight goals: a more highly qualified student body, greater academic support for faculty, a stronger curriculum, richer intellectual & cultural life, greater diversity, enhanced facilities, stronger revenue base, and improved ability to learn from other institutions. After researching best practices at other institutions, all divisions and departments set their own target goals that were aligned with the University’s eight goals.

Developed by President David C. Hodge in 2008 with the endorsement of the Board of Trustees, the Five-Year Strategic Goals Document reaffirmed our core values with the statement, “The defining hallmarks of an engaged Miami education are a broad foundation in the liberal arts and an intense focus on both the intellectual and personal development of highly motivated undergraduates, leading to exceptional student success.” The document also focused on five key goals:

1. Make the Miami undergraduate experience among the very best in the nation.
2. Ensure excellence in graduate education.
3. Raise the level of scholarly accomplishments.
4. Maximize Miami’s contributions to regional, state, national and global communities.
5. Establish a firm foundation for our future success by maximizing and leveraging our resources.

Crafted through an inclusive and comprehensive planning process consisting of 50 representatives from all academic and administrative divisions and approved by the University Senate and Board of Trustees, the newly adopted Miami 2020 Plan focuses on one unifying goal: “Promote a vibrant learning and discovery environment that produces extraordinary student and scholarly outcomes.” This goal is supported by three foundational goals:
1. Ensure vitality and sustainability by building a forward-looking, efficient, and caring culture that stimulates, recognizes, and rewards creativity, entrepreneurial thinking, and exemplary performance.

2. Promote a diverse culture of inclusion, integrity, and collaboration that deepens understanding and embraces intercultural and global experiences.

3. Cultivate mutually beneficial partnerships and applied and service-oriented projects that strengthen our local, state, national, and world communities.

Each goal includes objectives and specific metrics for gauging progress. All divisions, departments, programs, and offices have identified strategies, challenges, and opportunities for achieving the metrics, objectives, and goals; and each will report annually on progress made.

The institution relationship between mission and the diversity

The mission, the “I Am Miami” initiative, and the recently approved Miami 2020 Plan all explicitly underscore the significance of diversity and inclusion as critical imperatives for institutional success. The mission statement emphasizes the need “to cultivate an environment where diversity and difference are appreciated and respected,” while the “I Am Miami” Code of Love and Honor helps to instill a respect for diverse perspectives and a welcoming spirit in students. The second foundational goal in the Miami 2020 Plan focuses explicitly on diversity and includes four specific objectives, each with measurable metrics:

1. Attract and retain a diverse community of students, faculty, staff, and administrators.

2. Create an environment where our people live, learn, and work cooperatively with those of widely varied backgrounds, beliefs, abilities, and lifestyles, moving beyond boundaries to welcome, seek, and understand diverse peoples and perspectives.

3. Achieve cultural competency among members of the Miami community by immersing them in domestically and globally relevant learning experiences.

4. Expand, virtually and physically, Miami’s global involvement.

All divisions of the University have developed plans that include specific strategies for meeting these objectives, and are posted publicly on our website, and will be assessed annually. Departments and other units will report on their progress to deans or vice presidents who will submit reports each year to the president and provost. The provost will present findings annually to the Board of Trustees.

To ensure greater success in terms of diversity, in 2013, the University created a new “Office of Global Initiatives” that combines all international support services and is led by a new assistant provost. Miami also appointed a new associate vice president for institutional diversity in 2009, and the University Multicultural Council was reconstituted and renamed the Council on Diversity and Inclusion (CODI) to focus more pointedly on cultivating diversity and inclusion. Each division features a committee and/or administrators whose charge is to set division-specific diversity and international goals and strategies. Following the recommendations of the sexual assault prevention task force, a Deputy Title IX Coordinator for Student Sexual Assault was appointed in 2013.
Miami has a number of diversity-related units and centers focused on diversity and internationalization, including:

- Miami University Dolibois European Center (MUDEC) which is housed in a 15th century château in Differdange, Luxembourg and offers approximately 120 students each semester a combination of academic study, engagement in the local community, and various faculty-guided and independent travel opportunities. All students live in a European homestay arrangement; courses are focused on Europe, and many are taught by Miami faculty who live at the Center for up to two academic years.

- Office of Global Initiatives which encompasses all internationally focused support units, including:
  - International Student & Scholars Services Office provides support for international students and faculty (immigration and Visa resources, transitional issues, peer mentoring, workshops).
  - Study Abroad Resources provides comprehensive information about study abroad to students and departments, advising, and other forms of support, including assessment of study abroad and a pre-study abroad course.
  - Global Assistance Program (MU-GAP) supports travelers in a well-coordinated, collaborative effort, with experts from within the university, as well as contracted providers, and specialists in the field (crisis management, travel coordination, passport services).
  - Center for American & World Cultures provides courses, events, and other programs to advance understanding of other cultures.
  - The Confucius Institute serves as a platform for the internationalization of current and future Miami students and fosters an attitude of globalization and eagerness to study the Chinese language and culture. In addition, the Institute operates as a host outreach program, helping the MU community and the state of Ohio adapt to the changing global economy.

- Office of Diversity Affairs which is located in the Armstrong Student Center and offers direct support to diverse populations (including GLBTQ students), social justice through diversity education, and multicultural programming and campus resources on issues of diversity.

- Office of Diversity and Multicultural Services which is located on the regional campuses and dedicated to providing a supportive atmosphere for students, faculty, staff, and local community members of diverse backgrounds (e.g., racial/ethnic, gender, age, international, ability level, economic, sexual orientation, religion/spirituality). It offers cultural communication, programming, mentoring, workshops, as well as leadership and community service projects that educate and engage the campus and local communities in diversity related issues.

- Women’s Center which exists to support and empower women, educate the campus about women’s issues, and help the University achieve positive institutional change related to gender equity.
• American Culture and English (ACE) Program, which is an intensive, non-credit, semester-long program for conditionally admitted students on the Oxford campus who need to improve their language skills and cultural understanding.

• English Language & Culture (ELC) Program, which, like the ACE Program, provides full-time intensive, and noncredit English language instruction and prepare students for full admittance to the Middletown campus.

• Over-the-Rhine Residency Program which offers students from a variety of majors a full immersion and semester-long academic and community service experience in the inner city Cincinnati neighborhood of Over-the-Rhine.

• Urban Leadership Internship Program which provides students a summer internship and service-learning for students in one of several urban areas, including Chicago, Dayton, Columbus, and Cincinnati.

• Center for Enhancement of Learning, Teaching & University Assessment (CELTUA) that offers faculty development on teaching across cultures.

• Havighurst Center for Russian and Post-Soviet Studies which is dedicated to research by Miami faculty with other scholars from Russia, Eastern Europe, and Eurasia, and from other American universities; to service and learning activities that provide a greater understanding of this region for the student community; and to programs designed to foster interdisciplinary research on the most important questions relating to the future of this area.

• Interdisciplinary programs focusing on global and intercultural understanding such as International Studies, Women’s, Gender & Sexuality Studies; Latin American, Latino/a & Caribbean Studies; Black World Studies, and Asian & Asian American Studies are also offered at Miami.

In addition to the offices, centers, and programs listed above, the University has integrated global and intercultural learning into its curriculum. In the newly approved Global Miami Plan, students will be required to complete global and intercultural courses as well as meet an experiential learning requirement. In 2014, the summer reading book selected was Bruce Watson’s Freedom Summer to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the heroic work of the freedom summer volunteers who were trained on the site of the Western campus of Miami University. During the 2014-2015 academic year, Miami engaged in a year long series of events, “Celebrating Freedom: Understanding the Past, Building the Future,” that provided an opportunity for students, staff, and faculty to reflect on the progress made and the efforts yet to come in the United States and globally to ensure the freedom and dignity of all peoples.

The Farmer School of Business as well as the College of Education, Health, and Society require students in their divisions to complete a diversity-oriented course, and the College of Arts & Science has a foreign language requirement. Within the past ten years, several diversity-related degree and certificate programs (e.g., social justice major, China business certificate, critical and classical languages & cultures co-major) have emerged.

Miami also has a number of student organizations, including the Diversity Affairs Council that is under the Associated Student Government, representing diversity on campus, including Asian American Association, Black Student Action Association, Hillel, Indian Students Association, Association of Latin American Students, Muslim Students Association, Native American Student Association, and Spectrum (GLBTQ). In addition to the student organizations there are a number of offices and organizations for diverse faculty and staff.

Some of the major recent initiatives that are designed to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment and global/intercultural understanding are:

- Safe Zone Training, established in 2009, is a collaborative training effort led by the Office of Diversity Affairs that engages students, staff, and faculty across departments and offices to create a safe and more supportive social and educational campus climate for all GLBTQ students, faculty, and staff.
- Sexual Assault Prevention Task Force has developed two reports (2006 and 2013) that include key strategies and recommendations with the intent to strengthen safety, increase awareness, and encourage a respectful and supportive campus community. Strategies have included educational efforts, evaluation and enhancement of the university's direct response to incidents, and support for long-term solutions.
- Institute for a Superior Liberal Arts Education is a joint project of Miami and Walnut Hills High School and for the past three years, has annually brought leaders from high schools and liberal arts colleges and universities across the nation to discuss best practices in advancing liberal arts education to diverse students.
- Academic Partnerships Committee was formed in 2013 to oversee and coordinate efforts to develop partnerships with US and international high schools, colleges, and universities to encourage greater diversity and global learning. Partnerships involve dual degree programs, articulation and transfer agreements, joint research projects, academic and industry collaborations, etc.
- Shared Futures is an AAC&U initiative to advance global learning in general education programs in which Miami participated. Miami’s participation in this initiative informed the revision of the Global Miami Plan and shaped the strategic directions of the Global Initiatives Office.
- Global Studies Committee was constituted and charged by the Provost, in conjunction with the College of Arts & Science, to develop a proposal for the global studies unit.
- Global Teaching & Learning Annual Award, which was developed in 2013 to highlight and to encourage best practices in teaching global, learning outcomes at the undergraduate level.
- Global Service Learning is a new initiative to advance international experiential learning among faculty and students.

These efforts have led Miami to be ranked third for the number of students studying abroad among public doctoral institutions nationwide by the 2013 Institute for International Education report, with over 40% of our undergraduates studying abroad.

Since 2006, Miami has had a slow and steady increase in the number of diverse domestic students (from 9% of the first year class in 2006 to an estimated 13.3% in 2014) and an increase in the number of international students (from less than 1% of incoming students in 2006 to an estimated 5.5% in 2014). With regards to faculty, the number of female faculty has increased over time and the number of racially and ethnically diverse faculty has ranged from 14-17%. Classified and Unclassified staff numbers have room for improvement.

Overall, despite efforts and important gains, Miami still has room for improvement, particularly in the areas of; enhancing the diversity of its staff, students, faculty, and high level administrators, and improving retention and graduation rates for diverse students; and ensuring that the Miami community remains a welcoming and inclusive community for all students, staff, and faculty.
