Chair's Comments

Chair Mary Schell relayed the following information:

Good morning. Welcome and thank you for attending this meeting of the Miami University Board of Trustees.

It's my honor to start today by thanking Joyce and Roger Howe who were here with us yesterday. Their generous support for their alma mater allowed - among other things - the creation of the Howe Center for Writing Excellence.

Yesterday, the Academic and Student Affairs Committee - chaired by Trustee Pascoe - received an impressive presentation on the Center by its Director, Dr. Liz Wardle.

The Howes have long held that nothing in education is more important for students' careers than developing a clear and persuasive writing ability. Since 2005, the Howe Center has provided vital feedback and support to Miami students and faculty in their pursuit of effective writing.

The mission of the Center is to ensure that we support our students in developing as effective writers in college and fully prepare our graduates to excel as clear, concise, and persuasive writers in their careers, communities, and personal lives.

We are grateful to the Howes for their generosity and to Liz Wardle for leading such an impactful, and important Center. Your gifts are the kind of gestures that make this school so special.

We would also like to recognize Stacey Lowry Bretz. Stacey is a Miami University Distinguished Professor and a recipient of the Benjamin Harrison Medallion, who departs this summer to become Dean of Ohio Northern University's Getty College of Arts & Sciences. Congratulations Stacey, we thank you for your many years of dedicated service to Miami University, and wish you the very best.

Last week, Miami hosted a reception for leading employers in Greater Cleveland. In that part of the state, we have about 2,800 undergraduate and 115 graduate students and we estimate about 14,000 alumni. As with an event in Columbus earlier this year, it was a unique opportunity to both showcase the ongoing offerings at Miami and hear directly from local leaders as to their current and emerging workforce challenges. A special thanks to Jill Gaby on our Development team for her work to ensure these meetings run smoothly.

These events help promote partnerships between Miami University and Ohio's many community and business leaders. This outreach is intended to help increase the number of our students who choose to remain in Ohio after graduation so they will begin and grow their careers here. The interest and feedback in partnering is very strong and very positive. We want to raise Miami's profile around the state to showcase our talented students, faculty and leaders who work so hard to prepare students to excel in the working world of the future.

Next, highlighting another exceptional alumnus, I would like to congratulate Sean McVay – Class of 2008 – and coach of the Los Angeles Rams, the 2022 Super Bowl 56 champions. This past weekend, coach McVay was on campus as we unveiled his statue in the Cradle of Coaches Plaza at the south end of Yager Stadium.

At 36 years old he is the youngest head coach in the history of the National Football League to capture a Super Bowl Championship. Sean played wide receiver for the RedHawks from 2004 to 2007 and earned Miami's Scholar-Athlete Award his senior season. We remain very proud of the accomplished leaders we helped to create during their time at Miami and Sean is certainly one of the best in his field.

Now, to address Ohio's urgent need for more social work and mental health services, we want to be sure to share an exciting update.

To support our local communities, the U.S. Department of Education awarded Miami University nearly $5 million to increase social worker support among several K-12 public schools in Hamilton, Northridge, and Dayton.

The purpose of this grant is twofold.

First, it brings more assistance into local schools by offering paid internships and stipends to Masters of Social Work students who will provide in-school services to those in need.

Second, it will address an ongoing workforce shortage of social workers by providing new scholarship opportunities designed to encourage more people to pursue a career in social work.

We are pleased to continue our tradition of producing top talent in this field and for the leadership of the faculty to draw down much needed financial support.

Moving on to developments in collaborations, at our regional campuses, healthcare students can now earn their bachelor's degrees at no cost to them, thanks to three Southwest Ohio healthcare partners.

Kettering Health Hamilton, Premier Health Atrium Medical Center, and Butler County General Health District have joined Miami Regionals' Work Plus initiative.

With Work Plus, students work part-time - earning an income - while pursuing their degree. In turn, their employers pay their tuition.

Bringing these healthcare partners on board allows students to gain valuable work experience in their area of study while attending school. It positions them to graduate debt-free, and prepares them for immediate full-time entry into the workforce upon graduation.

And on now to one highlight of our academic excellence.

Three Miami students have been offered 2023-2024 Fulbright grants, and two others have been named as alternates.

Fulbright, the largest U.S. exchange program, provides grants for individually designed study and research projects or for English teaching assistant programs outside of the United States. Recipients of Fulbright awards are selected in an open, merit-based competition that considers leadership potential, academic and/or professional achievement, and record of service.

Since 2000, more than 80 Miami students and alumni have received Fulbright U.S. Student Program grants to conduct research or teach overseas.

In addition to Fulbright Scholars - Miami student Cameron Tiefenthaler was Ohio's only recipient of a Truman Scholarship this year. Established by Congress in 1975 as a living memorial to President Truman, the Truman Scholarship inspires and supports Americans from diverse backgrounds to choose public service.

This year's Truman Scholars were selected from 705 candidates nominated by 275 colleges and universities. Each scholar receives a $30,000 scholarship for graduate studies, leadership training, career counseling, and special internship and fellowship opportunities within the federal government.

Adding to Miami's awards - we were also delighted to learn that The Myaamia Center, with support from Miami University's IT Services, has received a national CIO 100 Award for using innovative ways to deliver the "National Breath of Life: Capacity Building for Community Language Archivists Apprenticeship Program."

The National Breath of Life is housed within the Myaamia Center on our main campus and is dedicated to supporting partner communities in the training and development of community curated language archives for revitalization. It is co-directed by Daryl Baldwin, executive director of the Myaamia Center, and Gabriela Pérez Báez, associate professor of linguistics at the University of Oregon.

Then - in March - Miami earned a Voter Friendly Campus designation from the Student Affairs Administrators in Higher Education, and the Fair Elections Center's Campus Vote Project.

Miami was one of only 258 institutions in the country to earn the 2023-2024 designation, which recognizes college and university campuses committed to voter registration, education, and turnout as part of their mission.

Institutions were evaluated on a three-step process, which included developing a written plan for how the school would engage student voters in 2022, facilitating voter education and engagement efforts on campus, and writing a final analysis.

On-campus partnerships and collaboration played a key role in Miami receiving the designation. ASPIRE, the Menard Family Center for Democracy, Armstrong Student Center, Student Life Communications, the Department of Political Science, and Associated Student Government were among the partners in the Civic Engagement Coalition.

With so many accomplishments, it is always a pleasure to recognize our incredible students, faculty, staff, and alumni, and the whole Miami University community, for their achievements. We appreciate and value all you do.

Finally - as with each year - tomorrow we celebrate a very special and moving commencement ceremony. All in - 4,555 will graduate and become alumni. On behalf of our Board, we wish each of them the best of luck in the future.

Thank you, that concludes my remarks.

Love and Honor.

Reports, Ordinances and Resolutions

Report of the Chair of University Senate Executive Committee

Chair Schell welcomed Dr. Poetter who relayed the following information:

Thank you for the opportunity to share some notes with you regarding Miami University Senate's work since the beginning of Spring Semester 2023.

As you know from my March senate report, we held our January 2023 Senate Retreat on the Hamilton Campus, and we have scheduled our Fall retreat for August 23, 2023. At the Fall retreat, we typically induct new senators, share notes on and examples of how senate works, and cover our version of “How a bill becomes a bill” or in more accurate terms, of how an idea for action or policy becomes a senate resolution on the floor of senate. It can be a long road from idea to a vote on a resolution, and it’s important for senators to know about and participate in the resolution process. We also have breakout sessions to begin deliberations about hot topics at hand, and in August we will be discussing the future of academic freedom, critical aspects of shared governance in a time of change, and other timely topics to be determined by the retreat planning team.

The past and elected chairs of senate and the senate secretary work all spring and summer - as charged to do so formally by the senate - to fill the positions on our senate committees, which generate significant action and movement with resolutions and reports on the floor of senate each year. Functioning, purposeful senate committees are a critical aspect of shared governance, offering many opportunities across the university for faculty, staff, and students to have a voice on important university matters that get heard on the senate floor. To me, there is no more exciting time in leadership than to work with a body like our university senate and ask the question on the floor, “Is there a motion to place this resolution on the floor of senate for discussion?” Music to my ears: the signal words of democracy in action.

Since my March presentation to you, the senate has heard several reports on the floor of senate including: a report by Undergraduate Dean Amy Bergerson regarding changes to midterm grade reporting procedures; a report by John Bowblis, Chair of the Benefits Committee, with an update on university benefits for faculty and staff; a report by Randi Thomas, Vice President of ASPIRE, with an update on a wide array of university projects; a report by Provost Mullenix regarding faculty composition; and a report by ASG Vice President Khenadi Grubb on ASG’s year of action.

In terms of formal senate business, we have discussed and acted on several issues in Senate Executive Committee and on the floor of senate to date and passed the following resolutions: to update the class attendance policy; to revise the senate bylaws regarding the function and composition of the Undergraduate Research Committee; to raise the cap on the TCPL faculty ratio in the College of Creative Arts; to change the structures of graduate student organizations in the graduate school to reflect current practices; to update graduate student policies related to research travel; to revise the course repeat policy; to create a new policy to support co-op experiences for undergraduate students; to make changes to the tenure track faculty promotion and tenure policy; to revise the midterm progress policy; to appoint an ad hoc committee to address important issues related to midterm progress; to oppose through a sense of the senate resolution the content and spirit of Ohio’s Senate Bill 83; to reapportion senate seats per the governance committee’s research and findings; to revise and update the TCPL policies and guidelines; to raise the TCPL cap in the College of Engineering and Computing; to revise the academic integrity policy; to revise the registration policy for graduate students; to revise the academic probation policy for graduate students; and to pass the new Cybersecurity and Networking, Bachelor of Science in Information Technology degree program in CLAAS. These are the formal, voted on items passed by university senate in regular sessions this Spring 2023.

In addition, related to senate business - including the work of our Fiscal Priorities Committee and senate sponsorship of our annual Budget Symposium for the campus in early Spring - Provost Mullenix and Lindsay Carpenter hosted their “Budget Road Shows” across the university in multiple settings of our colleges and campuses. I attended the Road Show presentation in EHS on April 18 in McGuffey Hall. That presentation was informative, helpful, and well-received. Thanks to Liz and Lindsay and Dr. Creamer for their excellent leadership on making the financial status of the university more understandable, accessible, and transparent.

Also, in our final meeting this year on May 1, we elected Senate Executive Committee Officers for next year including Rosemary Pennington, as 2024-2025 Chair Elect; Troy Travis, as our elected staff at-large representative to the Senate Executive Committee; and Nathan French, as our elected faculty at-large representative to SEC.

And nearly last, we are so grateful to be working as a senate executive committee with such a strong and supportive provost. Senate Chair Provost Mullenix has been with us and active every step of the way through several very complex issues on the floor of senate and behind the scenes. I want to thank her personally today for her leadership, and collegueship, and friendship. Anyone in my shoes, and there will be many more, needs a strong and steadfast provost as a senate partner. This next note is critical: NONE of the business of senate can get done without the outstanding service from our recording secretary of senate, Tammy Peterson, our secretary of senate, Dana Cox, and our parliamentarian Rob Withers. And, finally, we are in a strong position with leadership succession, with Tracy Haynes, Chair Elect and now Chair, who is ready to lead on the floor of senate and beyond. Please say hello to Tracy who is here today in the gallery. She will be making the next report to the Board from this podium.

On behalf of university senate and senate executive committee, thank you for the opportunity to give a short update. And, with this year in the history books for the most part, I want to thank the Board of Trustees for your support of my service this past year as Chair of Senate Executive Committee and for the opportunity to share these updates. It has been a tremendously satisfying learning experience, all around, and I have been grateful for every opportunity to serve.

Report of the Student Body President

Chair Schell welcomed Amitoj Kaur and Nyah Smith. Amitoj Kaur then introduced Nyah Smith, who relayed the following:

Hello Everyone and Good morning!

It is with honor and excitement that I stand before you all today representing the Student Body and our Associated Student Government! I know I am a new face to many of you and recognize the shoes that I will fill. So, to begin, my name is Nyah Smith and I am an upcoming senior double majoring in Social Work and Public Health. I am from Canton, Ohio and got introduced to the field of social work because my family became a foster family when I was 14 years old!

Prior to my election, you could have found me in the Office of Student Activities serving as a Head SEAL Ambassador or in the many rooms of the Armstrong Student Center serving as the Chair of the Armstrong Student Center Board. I am also a proud Evans Scholar due to my long-standing caddy record and service to my community, and have been a photographer with MUF&D and UP Magazine. Finally, my favorite involvement, is being an intramural curler! I have truly taken my time here at Miami and crafted my experience into such a unique journey. It is now with immense gratitude that I get to serve Miami University as our next Student Body President!

During my time as a Head SEAL Ambassador I had the opportunity to work with over 600 student organizations on our campus. This time allowed me to see the passion, dedication, commitment, and the will that so many of my peers have. Our students find their homes, dreams, safe spaces, and passions within so many organizations and it has been such a joy to see. It allowed me to be a part of spaces where I amplified the voices of students, along with being able to see where gaps were present within our campus experience. Student engagement and involvement are two things that I am extremely passionate about and recognize their importance.

Which led me to running alongside one of the most dedicated, driven, and hardworking humans I know, Jules Jefferson! Jules is an upcoming senior double majoring in biochemistry and nutrition with co-majors in environmental science and premedical studies, and she previously served as the Secretary of Infrastructure and Sustainability within our Associated Student Government.

Jules and I met in a student organization our freshman year called Love you Like a Sister. This organization has dedicated themselves to supporting women of color and has given us a safe space throughout the past 3 years. When I asked Jules to run with me it was over fried pickles at Skippers this past semester, that followed with immediate campaign planning.

Just before spring break, we took on 3 ½ weeks of campaigning where we ran on the slogan of #BuildingtheTable. We want to see a Miami where all students feel prepared and equipped to have a seat at the table. Which comes from a quote that I love, “May we do the work of building longer tables, not higher fences.”

We want our fellow students to feel seen, heard, and valued. Which we got to share by meeting various student organizations and even the Miami Football Team, after a long practice in their team huddle during our campaign trail! At the end we were able to receive 18 student organization endorsements and even an endorsement from the Ohio State University Student Body President and Vice President.

We won our election with over 68% of the vote! Making us the first all-Black ticket to be elected as Student Body President and Vice President at Miami University. We are still soaking in this accomplishment and are very honored to be history makers. Yet, we recognize that the work must be done and that making history comes with responsibility.

Since our election, we have gone full swing into our transition and are working to learn as much as we can! I have spent many hours in previous President Amitoj Kaur’s office and Jules has spent much time with previous Vice President Khenadi Grubb. We have also spent time with administrators such as Dr. Scott Walter, Dr. Jayne Brownell, President Crawford, Dr. Cristina Alcalde and her team in the Office of Institutional Diversity & Inclusion, our CMO Jessica Rivinius, and various community partners learning how we can best partner together, along with spending time with our fellow students to show them that we are here and we are here to represent them.

Currently, we are beginning to plan a Campus Wide Day of Service with the help and guidance of Dr. Jayne Brownell and Dr. Kimberly Vance in the Office of Student Activities. We also met with Mayor Snavelly of Oxford, to discuss how we can best serve the Oxford community. Along with City Manager Douglas Elliot. We are hoping that through this day of service we can bridge the gap between students, administrators, and the Oxford community and begin a tradition that serves not just our campus but our community as well.

Thanks to our Associated Student Government Senate we have secured $5,000 of funding to better support student organizations and their efforts towards sustainability. We recognize that sustainable efforts are costly and want to be able to support our student organizations in the best way possible.

We also had the opportunity to connect with Dr. John Ward during our campaign and look forward to continuing to work with him and his team on a semesterly Mental Health Screening Day. We recognize that mental health is a concern on our campus and also recognize the incredible work being done by the Counseling Center and look forward to working with them throughout our term.

Additionally, we have begun to work with John Faries in Campus Services and the Wilks Center for Leadership and Service on creating an Engage Rather than Pay system for our campus parking tickets. On campus currently, if a student receives a parking violation it costs them $75. Which we recognize can be a feat for our students and we look forward to creating a system where students can complete 4 hours of service rather than paying. Our system will be modeled after the University of Arkansas.

Along with the goals I have already discussed, we will be working with the Center for Career Exploration and Success on a Career Clothing Closet option to meet the immediate needs of students for on the fly interviews and events. As well as initiatives to create better transparency within our Student Government and our Student Body.

I have also begun the work to continue to lead the coalition for Ohio's Student Body Presidents that Amitoj worked so hard on with President Crawford.

We know that we have work to do. However, we value collaboration and have made sure to create goals and to have run on a platform that is tangible. Our team is incredible and we are so grateful that you all got to meet them after just being freshly sworn in this past week.

I look forward to working with you all and getting to know you better over the next year! Here's to building the table and continuing to serve our University and Student Body with the utmost Love and Honor!

With that I conclude my report!

Academic and Student Affairs Committee

Report of the Committee Chair

Committee Chair John Pascoe relayed the following:

The Academic and Student Affairs Committee met yesterday in Marcum Conference Center. Six resolutions were considered and all are recommended for approval today.

The Committee heard updates from Academic Affairs, the Vice President for Student Life, the Vice President for University Communications and Marketing, and the Vice President for Enrollment Management and Student Success. The Committee also received written reports from Associated Student Government and University Senate.

The meeting began with updates and presentations from Vice President for Enrollment Management and Student Success, Brent Shock. Vice President Shock was joined by Provost Mullenix as they gave a presentation on meeting student demand for majors, and providing an overview of the evolution of majors offerings over the past nearly ten years. He then provided an update on the EMSS Division and on the outcomes from the meeting with business leaders in Columbus. He was followed by Assistant Vice President and Director of Admission, Bethany Perkins, who provided the Committee with the first enrollment update since the May 1 confirmation deadline. Applications for Fall entry were up for all areas, and admissions were up 6.5% overall, while confirmations were down 1.5% overall. She also shared that this year the university received an increase over last year of 46.2% in requests from applicants for additional financial aid. Among graduate programs confirmations are up, year over year.

The Committee then heard from Vice President for Student Life Jayne Brownell. Dr. Brownell updated the Committee on Student Life matters and informed the Committee that at the next meeting there will be a robust update on the recently completed work of the Mental Health Task Force.

Vice President for University Communications and Marketing, Jessica Rivinius, then updated the Committee on UCM overall, and on social media marketing; reviewing delivery platforms, target audiences, strategies and results.

Provost Mullenix then provided an Academic Affairs update, and presented six resolutions: a new degree in Cybersecurity and Networking, revisions to the tenure policy, and four resolutions regarding TCPL faculty, all are recommended for approval by the Board today.

Professor Liz Wardle then informed the Committee on the Howe Center for Writing Excellence, and their initiatives and multiple points of intervention to help enhance writing skill and ability.

Professor Ellen Yeziarski, then updated the Committee on the Center for Teaching Excellence, the mission of which is to model and promote engagement with scholarly and reflective teaching practices to support the academic development of all faculty and students. Their work helps support instructor learning, and to build a scholarly teaching community.

The Committee also received several written reports, including reports on student wellness, student engagement, the Center for Student Diversity and Inclusion, and MiamiRISE. These and the other written reports received will be included in the meeting's minutes.

Thank you, that concludes my report.

Resolutions

Provost Mullenix spoke in support of the resolution which creates a new, in demand degree in Cybersecurity and Networking within the College of Liberal Arts and Applied Sciences. Trustee Haines then moved, Trustee Burgess seconded, and by voice vote, the resolution was unanimously approved, with all voting in favor and none opposed.

Tenure Policy

Provost Mullenix spoke in support of the resolution which provides revised guidance regarding the eligibility for promotion. Trustee Feldman then moved, Trustee Anderson seconded, and by voice vote, the resolution was unanimously approved, with all voting in favor and none opposed.

Trustee Robinson then moved, Trustee Burgess seconded, and by voice vote, the resolution was unanimously approved, with all voting in favor and none opposed.

Finance and Audit Committee

Report of the Committee Chair

Committee Chair Mark Sullivan relayed the following:

Madam Chairperson and Members of the Board of Trustees:

The Finance and Audit Committee met yesterday at the Marcum Conference Center. There were five presentations and two resolutions presented during the meeting. Both resolutions are recommended for approval later in today's meeting.

Each spring the Committee meets with the University's independent auditor to review the audit plan for the annual audit engagement. Jim Creeden from FORVIS presented their audit plan and solicited feedback on the plan from the Committee. It is expected that the auditors will present the audited financial statements and related reports at the Committee's December meeting.

The Committee also received a presentation on the state of technology at the university by the university's Chief Information Officer, David Seidl. His report was informative, and I want to recognize the exceptional work done by Mr. Seidl and the technology staff.

Mr. Seidl's presentation prompted some questions from the Committee about cybersecurity. Cyberattacks are a serious problem today, and the Committee is pleased with the exceptional work that Mr. Seidl and his team have provided on this issue and the absence of any serious breaches at Miami. Mr. Seidl also shared information with the Committee about the implementation of the new ERP which is progressing nicely.

Cody Powell provided the Committee with an update on the university's progress with capital projects including a presentation about the facility condition index. The facility condition index is rising and is now above the target level. This reflects a decline in the overall condition of Miami's buildings and reduced spending on the renewal of existing buildings. This is due to the need to redirect position vacancy savings away from capital projects to balance the budget and the recent prioritization of new construction projects over renovation projects in order to respond to current academic priorities. However, the initiation of the Bachelor Hall project and the removal of Williams Hall will improve this situation. This report is presented annually and will continue to receive the attention of the Committee.

Mr. Powell also informed the committee about the successful completion of the Clinical Health Science and Wellness building and the progress being made on the McVey Data Science building and Ogden Hall. Mr. Powell and his team were complimented by the Committee for their outstanding work on managing supply chain problems and their ability to deliver projects on time and on budget.

The Committee continued its February discussion of the budget yesterday. A budget for fiscal year 2024 will be considered at the June meeting. However, most of yesterday's discussion was about recent enrollment trends and the difficulty of growing net tuition revenue in today's extremely competitive student recruitment environment. Net tuition for the incoming student cohort on the Oxford Campus is slightly down compared to fall 2022. With the growth in applications and the pandemic ending, the Committee was hopeful that some reduction in tuition discounting and growth in net tuition for this class would occur.

The news regarding the state appropriation also was not as good as expected. Most of the increases proposed by the Governor were cut in the budget passed out of the Ohio House, although about a 1.3% increase in the appropriation was approved. However, there is optimism that some restoration of the increases in the Governor's budget will occur in the Ohio Senate or during the conference committee proceedings.

These budget issues are not unique to Ohio as several flagship universities in other states are reporting similar or even more negative forecasts for tuition revenue and state support. The Committee discussed these very strong headwinds with Dr. Creamer as it continues to study these trends. With the forecast for smaller high school graduating classes in the second half of this decade and a continued emphasis on affordability by families, the recruitment of students is almost certain to become even more competitive throughout this decade. When enrollment pressures like this occur, the University must be able to favorably differentiate its programs and services from those institutions it competes against. The university's strategic plan identified these challenges and continues to offer guidance on how to respond to these issues. Unfortunately, the trends are even more unfavorable than what was anticipated during the planning process.

In addition to the presentations at the meeting, the Committee considered two resolutions. The first is to authorize the University to be reimbursed for eligible capital expenditures should it issue new debt in the future. Certain capital expenditures are being incurred today that may be appropriate to fund through a possible new debt issuance. However, this resolution does not authorize any new debt and the resolution is only intended to offer improved flexibility to the University around its capital planning.

Lastly, each year the Committee reviews its charter to make sure it is appropriate for today's and tomorrow's needs. In light of the growing revenue problem, the resolution proposes that additional financial ratio analysis and debt rating oversight occur more frequently by the Committee. As a result of the proposed changes to the charter, additional reviews of the university's financial ratios and its bond rating will occur each year.

Both of the proposed resolutions were unanimously endorsed by the Committee and are recommended for approval by the Board of Trustees.

There was no report by the Investment Subcommittee at yesterday's meeting since the subcommittee will not meet again until the June meeting.

Madam Chairperson, that concludes the report for the Finance and Audit Committee.

Ordinances and Resolutions

Resolutions

Bond Resolution - Debt Reimbursement

Senior Vice President Creamer spoke in support of the resolution which was not a request for new debt, but would allow for reimbursement from bond proceeds for earlier, associated expenditures. Trustee Anderson then moved, Trustee Burgess seconded, and by voice vote, the resolutions were unanimously approved, with all voting in favor and none opposed.

Revisions to the Finance and Audit Committee Charter

Senior Vice President Creamer spoke in support of the resolution. Trustee Robinson then moved, Trustee Burgess seconded, and by voice vote, the resolution was unanimously approved, with all voting in favor and none opposed.

Student Trustee Reports

Student Trustee Fazio relayed the following:

Thank you, madam chair,

It has been quite the adjustment not having Dawson here. He is a friend and a good mentor, and one I can always go to, but I also owe thanks to many of the people here for helping me over the last few months.

Unfortunately, I can't introduce the next student trustee today, but I am optimistic that we will have that pleasure soon.

I am proud to be working alongside a new Student Body President and Vice-President. Nyah and Jules ran an impressive campaign, and managed an equally impressive smooth transition into office. It has been a pleasure to get to know both of them better.

We've begun transitioning the relationship between the new ASG administration and the student trustees. It didn't take long after the election was over to have our first meeting of what will be many. Over the last year, the Student Trustees and Associated Student Government have worked together to accomplish a great deal. Our long-standing partnership has meant a lot to everyone involved, and I am grateful to have the opportunity to continue it with these amazing people.

As we navigate an era where the activities of higher education are increasingly scrutinized under a political lens, ASG will remain a crucial avenue for Miami students to have a voice in their education. I could not feel more comfortable knowing this avenue is in their hands.

Since our last meeting, I have continued the work on mental health we described in March. I continued serving on Dr. Brownell's mental health task force, and had the privilege of helping provide the student perspective on mental health at Miami. I worked with a number of other students, from former trustee Cosgrove, to the president of the mental health student organization HAWKS. The discussions we had were not easy, but many people were willing to share some of the darkest moments of their own lives to help us better the lives of others. It was humbling to work alongside people so dedicated to the success of Miami students that they were willing to share such personal and traumatic experiences over zoom at 8:30 am on a Thursday.

I was also able to meet with a number of student organizations that focus on mental health and wellbeing. We discussed the ways our students are supporting each other and destigmatizing the struggles that so many people face. We also discussed what mental health could look like here in the future, and what it might take to get there. The conversations I had uplifted me, knowing that there are so many people right here, on campus, willing to share the load of others' struggles. I am excited to continue to work with these groups and share their insight.

Unfortunately, I cannot say that this semester has been entirely positive for me. Over spring break, I underwent surgery to repair a torn ligament in my left shoulder. While my shoulder is mostly back in its socket, I was left with only my right hand for over a month. My dominant hand was immobilized, and I struggled to do a great many things that usually present no challenge. I was in pain, and frustrated. But I have had the fortune of being at a university that values accessibility, and has supported me throughout the last few months.

I don't have an easy time asking for help, but I found myself at the Miller center shortly after my surgery. When I needed testing accommodations faster than their computer system would allow, they found a solution. When I couldn't write to take notes in class, they found a solution. For me, this setback has been temporary. But for so many students, what they struggle with is not. So many of my peers at Miami struggle with a form of impairment every day, with no end in sight. I watched them work with students to resolve accessibility issues in classes, residence halls, and dining halls to unlock their potential. It was an inspiring process to watch, and my experience emphasized to me that even when it is difficult, expensive, or impractical, we must continue to give every Miami student the opportunity to achieve their full potential.

As I wrap up my sophomore year, I find myself reminded almost every day that Miami is a place full of good, caring people. I'm grateful for the ones I have come to know. I'm excited, and just a little scared for what is coming in the next few years. I'm glad that I get to have the next two years with the people I have found here.

With Love and Honor, I conclude my report.

Report for BOT meeting on June 23, 2023:

1. The last official meeting of the 2022-23 Senate was May 1, 2023, but work has continued during the summer in order to be ready for the fall. One item of business for the summer is to ensure all senate committees/councils are ready to work in August. The committees and councils are important to the work of senate as they develop, deliberate, and review many of the policies and proposals that are presented to Senate. Before adjourning in the spring, Senate voted to give permission for the Secretary of Senate to work with the chair and chair-elect of Senate Executive Committee (SEC) to fill all faculty vacancies on committees and councils. A list of faculty members interested in each committee/council was compiled from the results of a survey that was sent to all members of the Faculty Assembly to allow faculty to indicate interest in the various committees and councils. Most of the vacancies on the committees and councils have already been filled. The remaining spots will be filled by the end of July with the exception of the Council on Diversity and Inclusion as this council is currently “on hold” as its charges are reviewed and refined to be distinct but complementary to that of the Office of Institutional Diversity and Inclusion.
2. Senate leaders from the 14, four-year Ohio universities and colleges form the Ohio Faculty Council (OFC). The OFC is currently chaired by Laura Luehrmann from Wright State and meets every other month to discuss pertinent topics relevant to higher education. I began attending the OFC meetings in January with Tom Poetter. Since the last Senate Report, the Ohio Faculty Council met on May 12 and June 9. I attended both of these meetings. Chancellor Randy Gardner from the Ohio Department of Higher Education attended the meeting on May 12, and answered questions most of which revolved around SB 83 and HB 151. The Chancellor listened to the concerns regarding this bill and was “hopeful that regardless of legislative outcome, that there are still ways the spirit of shared values/responsibilities can be sustained and grown because without faculty we don’t have universities and can’t serve students”. Potential amendments to SB 83 and HB 151 were discussed at the June 9, meeting along with plans for a special joint meeting in September with the Ohio Faculty Senate to discuss mental health concerns in higher education.
3. Members of the SEC are also working during the summer to plan the Annual Fall Senate Retreat. The retreat is scheduled for August 23. The retreat is an optional meeting of the Senate and provides an opportunity for informal conversations about current topics pertinent to Miami. The first part of the retreat will be an introduction to Senate and Robert's rules which is geared toward new senators but is a good review for all senators. Additionally, discussions of how senators can communicate with constituents, how they can participate during a Senate meeting, and the purpose and procedures during executive session of Senate are being planned. Outside of senate procedure, a discussion and potential revisions of the policy on academic freedom in being planned.

4. I am looking forward to leading the SEC during the next academic year. Provost Mullenix and I have regular meetings scheduled and will be working together to ensure shared governance continues and Senate is as effective and organized as possible. Initial goals for the fall include reviewing current senate policies and practices and suggesting revisions where appropriate as well as working with an Ad Hoc Committee led by Associate Provost and Dean for Undergraduate Education, Amy Bergerson, and University Registrar, Amanda Euen, to examine the current midterm grade reporting system and how it can be improved for an increase in student success.
5. Thank you for the opportunity to speak to you today and update you on current goals of Senate.

An advance Oxford Campus university contract confirmation deposit of $330.00 and an admission fee of $95.00 are charged to all incoming residential students. Generally speaking, the $330 university contract confirmation deposit will be returned to the student after their final semester at Miami University. If the student pays the university contract confirmation deposit and fails to matriculate, or matriculates and withdraws mid-semester the deposit is forfeited.

E. Meal Plan Change and Refund Policy

Meal Plan holders are permitted to change their selected level until the first day of class during each semester. Meal plan holders may continue to add additional declining balance dollars at any time, but are not permitted to lower their plan level after the first day of class.

Unused declining balance dollars at the end of each semester roll forward to the next semester. Unused buffet meals do not carry forward. When a student moves off campus, any remaining declining balance dollars are converted to the meal plan for off campus students.

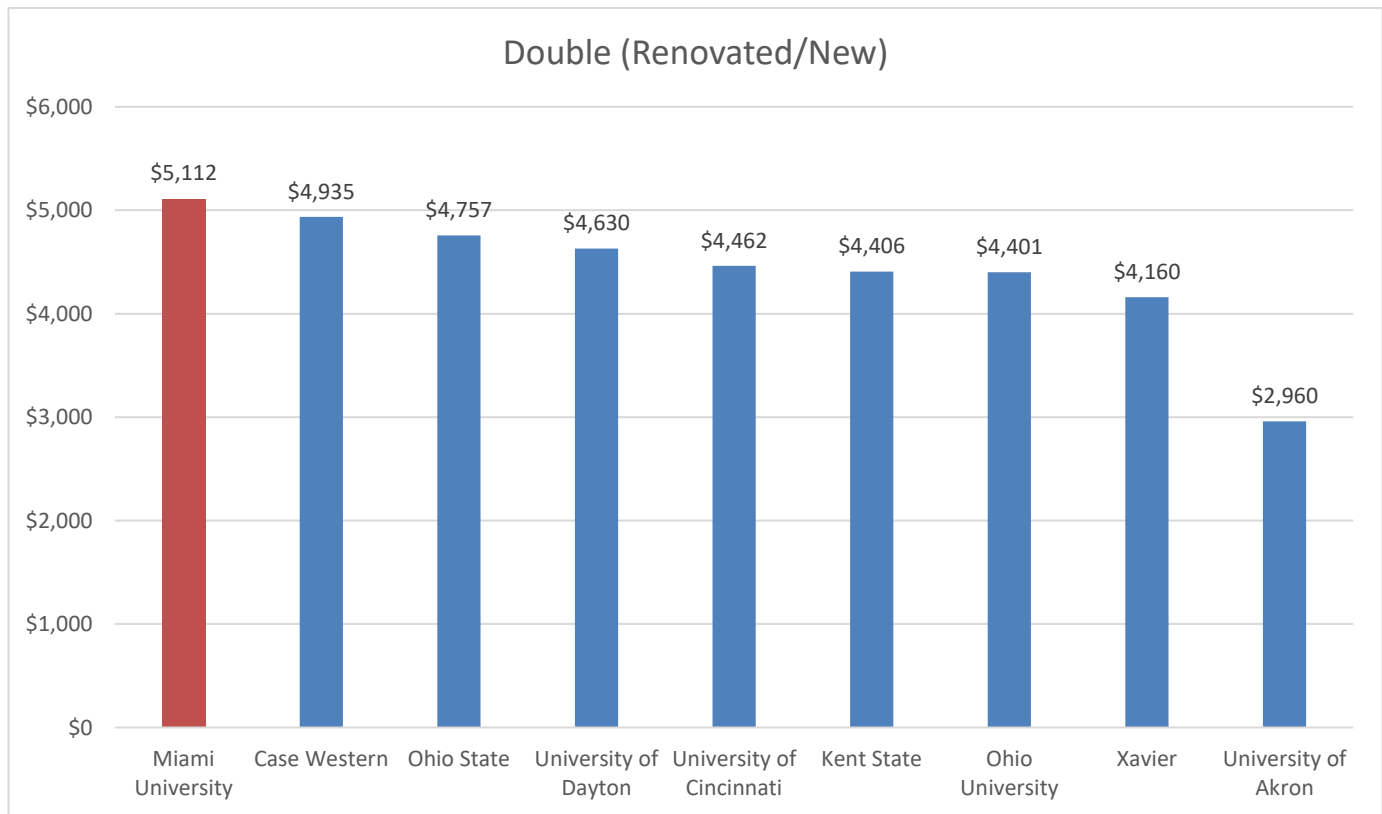

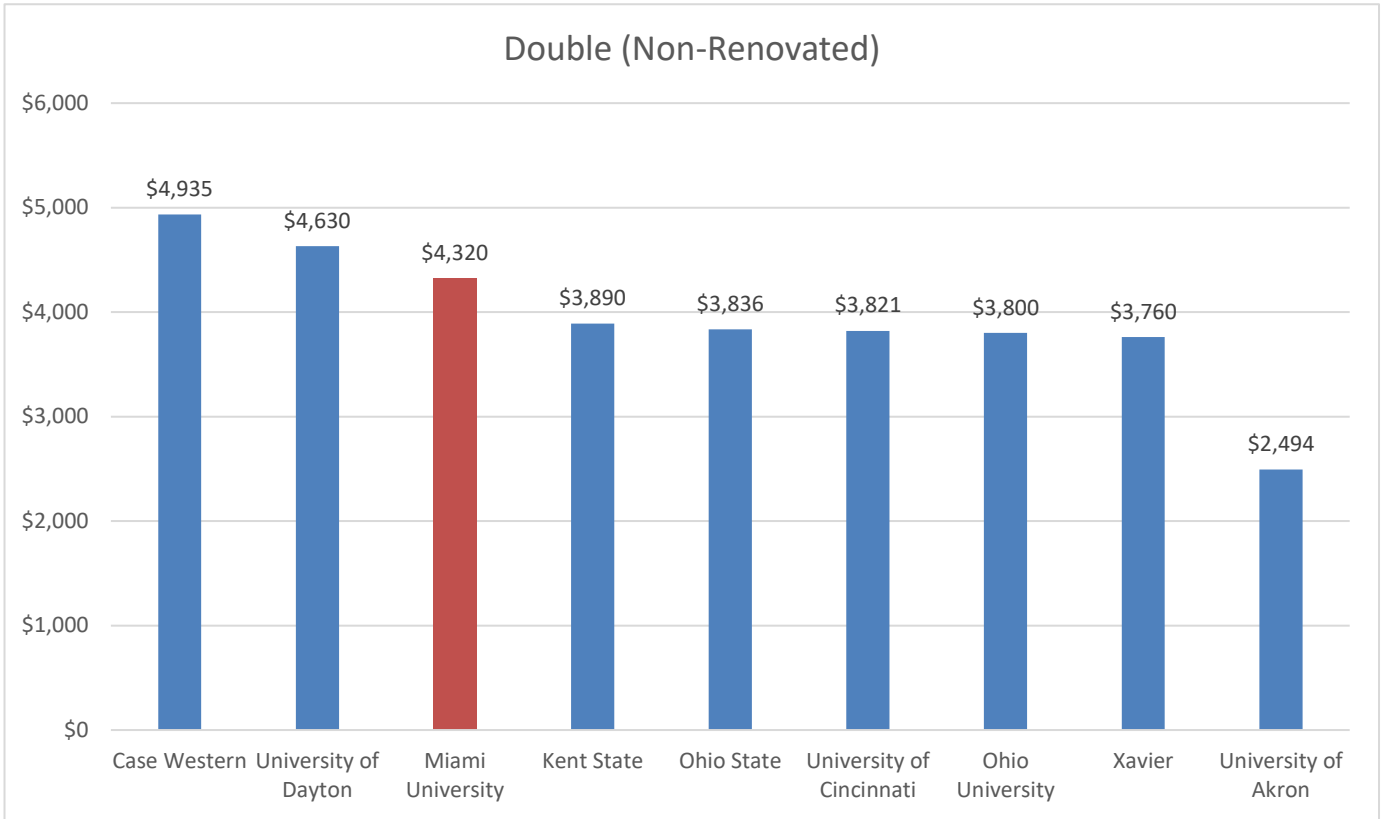

Students who withdraw from the university within the first five days of a class term receive a full credit of their current term declining balance deposit (less any used amounts), and a full credit of their buffet meals based on the percentage schedule defined in Section D (1-6) of this document.

Students who withdraw from the university after the fifth day of the term, and up to the fortieth day of the term will receive a refund of 80% of any unused declining balance dollars, and a calculated credit for unused buffet meals (if applicable), based on the same percentage schedule defined in Section D (1-6) of this document. There is no refund or credit for students who graduate or withdraw after the fortieth day of the term.

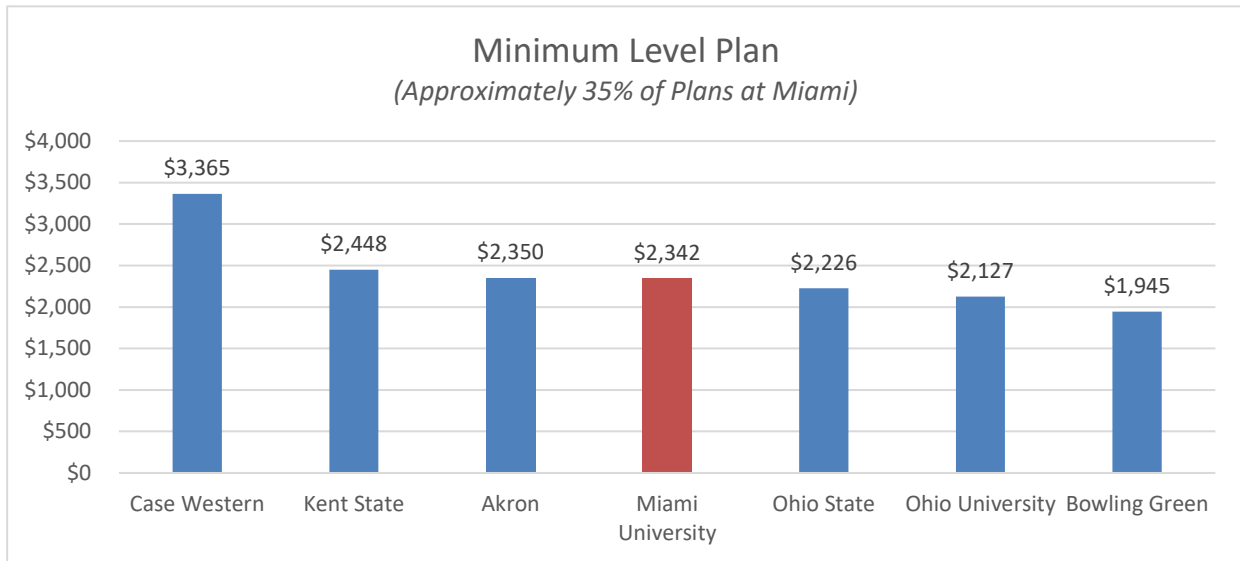

In the event of an emergency, the Senior Vice President for Finance and Business Services or his designee is authorized to make exceptions to the above stated refund policy.

WHEREAS; Miami University has already approved $11,000,000 of funding for pre-construction services and the first Guaranteed Maximum Price (GMP), which included the construction of associated enabling projects and the pre-purchase of several long lead items; and

WHEREAS; Miami University has continued through Design Development and maintained the overall total project budget of the renovation and enabling projects to $72,200,000; and

WHEREAS; Miami University anticipates receiving an additional capital appropriation from the State of Ohio, in which access to these funds will not occur until after the construction of the project has commenced;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED; that the Board of Trustees authorizes the Senior Vice President for Finance and Business Services and Treasurer, to proceed in executing an agreement amendment and GMP for the remainder of the project budget for an amount up to $61,200,000.

Executive Summary
for the
Bachelor Hall Renovation
June 23, 2023

Bachelor Hall is a critical facility for teaching and engaging Miami University undergraduate students from all majors. Each year about 7,000 students, or about 38% of the student body, take a course in Bachelor Hall; undergraduates representing every major offered at Miami University take a course in Bachelor Hall; 37% of all the courses taught in Bachelor Hall are courses required to satisfy graduation requirements. Bachelor Hall will become a Humanities Hub housing the departments of English, History, Media Journalism and Film, Philosophy, and Religion, the American Culture and English (ACE) Program, the Ohio Writing Project and the Humanities Center. The existing building, built in 1979, is 112,418 Gross square feet and has not had any major renovation since being constructed.

The renovation of Bachelor Hall will address all of the spaces and systems. The exterior will remain largely intact with the possibility of enclosing the courtyard to capture additional program space. The renovation will look to improve the energy efficiency of the building with modern equipment and fixtures as well as connecting the building onto the existing Western Geothermal system. The offices, instructional spaces and student spaces will be reconfigured and updated to meet current pedagogical methods and user’s contemporary expectations. The building will also receive updated life safety systems and improve accessibility.

During the programming and Schematic Design phases, the project budget was adjusted to $72,200,000, thus incurring some additional preconstruction services fees. The university signed the first of two Guaranteed Maximum Price (GMP) agreements for early purchase of equipment and construction related to the enabling projects. Construction Documents are in process and are scheduled to be complete in June 2023.

The second and final GMP has been negotiated and is ready to execute upon authority being granted to do so. Work on enabling projects will begin late summer of 2023.

Executive Summary
for the
North Chiller Plant Conversion
June 23, 2023

Miami University’s Utility Master Plan has developed a pathway to convert the campus from steam heating to low temperature heating hot water. This project is the next major step in this plan. The North Chiller plant will be converted into a Geothermal Plant and eliminate the need for steam to support the northern portion of the campus.

The North Chiller Plant is located on the north side of campus on Tallawanda Road next to Withrow Residence Hall. The North Chiller Plant currently provides both hot and chilled water to academic buildings, residence halls, dining halls, athletic buildings and auxiliary buildings on the north side of campus.

The North Chiller Plant will be re-configured to provide hot water via existing and new heat recovery chillers. A geothermal heat pump system is proposed for the plant to provide the low temperature heating hot water while also capturing and recovering some waste-heat on campus. Approximately 1,200 geothermal wells are proposed to be installed in the West Millett Parking Lot.

Two existing buildings on North Campus, Millett Hall and Student Athlete Development Center (SADC), are currently served by campus steam from the main steam plant on Western Campus. Millett and SADC will be converted from steam to low temperature heating hot water as part of this project. These buildings will also receive new domestic hot water systems as part of the project.

The schematic design of the geothermal well field at the West Millett parking lot location has been completed. The design of the conversion of the North Chiller Plant is continuing. In May 2023, a Best Value Selection process was used to select a Construction Manager at Risk to perform pre-construction services and complete the work.

The geothermal well drilling is tentatively scheduled to begin around November 2023. The duration of the well drilling is anticipated to complete in the summer of 2025. The work in the plant is tentatively scheduled to begin in the summer of 2024.

Finance and Audit

RESOLUTION R2023-xx

WHEREAS, the University's administration regularly reviews with its financial advisor the overall debt of the institution for determining available debt capacity and the implications of existing and potential future debt on the operating budget of the University; and

WHEREAS, such reviews also include a review of the University's existing debt policy to better ensure it aligns with the current bond market and financial priorities of the University; and

WHEREAS, a recent review of the debt policy identified modest changes to the debt policy that would better align the policy with the current bond market and recent changes to the charter of the Finance and Audit Committee.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: the Board of Trustees hereby adopts the proposed revisions to the University's debt policy, as indicated in the attached document.

MIAMI UNIVERSITY DEBT POLICY

The primary objective of Miami University's use of debt is to optimally allocate debt as a limited capital resource in funding carefully selected projects that further the University's mission and fulfill its strategic objectives. This policy sets forth the goals and strategies the University expects to utilize to accomplish this objective.

GOALS

1. To prudently use debt as a source of capital to fund capital projects that relate to the strategic priorities of the University but have limited opportunities for financing from other sources such as state appropriations, philanthropic giving, or grants.
2. To manage the University's overall debt level to maintain a ~~minimum~~ credit rating in the ~~range of the high "A" to low "AA"~~ categories~~category~~, according to the major rating agencies.
3. To maintain a weighted average net cost of capital below ~~5.50%~~ 5.0% by carefully structuring financings to take advantage of interest rate cycles and available financing vehicles.
4. To maintain debt capacity ratios ~~in excess of the minimum acceptable composite score~~ as outlined by the State of Ohio (see addendum) ~~and that~~ allow the University to achieve its credit rating, cost of capital, and long-term viability objectives.
5. To assure that projects financed have a prudent plan for debt repayment.

DEBT MANAGEMENT STRATEGIES

1. Identification of capital projects

Major capital projects are prioritized through the University's long-range capital plan. The capital plan is constructed within the framework of the University's financial plan and is aligned annually with the University's budget. Sources of funding for capital projects include state capital appropriations, gifts or grants, annual capital renewal or replacement budgets, internal reserves, and bond financing.

Bond financing, because of its long-term financial implications, is to be used strategically on projects for which other funding sources are limited, and will be coordinated when possible so that multiple projects may be accommodated in a single borrowing to create efficiencies.

The planning process undergoes extensive review and discussion with University management and the Board of Trustees' Finance and Audit Committee. As each individual project in the capital plan is initiated, the project and its financing plan is reviewed by the Finance and Audit Committee and approved by the Board of Trustees. Any future obligations resulting from the financing plans, such as debt service payments or outstanding gift pledges, are reviewed annually with the Finance and Audit Committee as part of the University's normal budget planning to ensure that the financing plans remain viable. If they need to be adjusted, they are adjusted within the framework of the overall financial plan for the University.

Formatted: Indent: First line: 0.5"

2. Debt capacity

Miami University's debt capacity can be defined as:

1. ~~A~~ level of outstanding debt at which the University can maintain its high credit ratings and a low cost of borrowing, and
2. ~~A~~ practical level of annual debt service payments that the University can comfortably cover from predictable sources of repayment.

The University intends to maintain ~~minimum~~ underlying credit ratings in the ~~high~~ "A" to low "AA" ~~range~~ category in order to issue debt at relatively low interest rates. The University does not intend to issue the maximum possible levels of debt, but intends to maintain a comfortable reserve of debt capacity. A prudent level of debt provides access to capital but does not unduly burden the institution's budget with annual repayment obligations. Furthermore, a moderate and consistent debt burden also serves the goal of intergenerational equity; one generation of tuition-payers is not overburdened at the expense of another generation.

Debt capacity is generally measured through ratio analysis. Ratios provide a consistent measure of the debt level carried by an institution in relation to its balance sheet, revenues and expenses. Ratio analysis provides insight into debt capacity from two perspectives: by monitoring trends over time and in comparison to benchmarks. It is the intent of the University to maintain a strong financial position that will support a favorable ratio analysis measured against national standards, peer and in-state comparisons, and credit rating agency medians. Some of the key ratios currently utilized for evaluating debt capacity are attached as Addendum A. Ratios should be reviewed with the Board of Trustees at the end of each fiscal year as part of the financial update and prior to new bond issuance with pro-forma data.

3. Interest rate management

The primary objective of interest rate management is to make strategic and structural decisions on each University financing in order to minimize the aggregate interest expense to the University. After reviewing historical long-term interest rate cycles and industry benchmarks, the University has established a goal of maintaining a weighted average net cost of capital below ~~5.50%~~ 5.0%. It is recognized that this goal may not be achievable in very high interest rate environments; in such situations, the goal will be to achieve the lowest cost of capital available under the circumstances. ~~Methods of Debt portfolio considerations for~~ maintaining a low cost of capital include:

1. Issuing fixed vs. variable rate debt
2. Maturity length and principal amortization
3. Call provisions and the use of premium and discount coupons
4. Managing interest rate cycles
5. Selective use of interest rate swaps and other derivative products
6. Diversifying the universe of its potential investors
7. Negotiated vs. competitive sales
8. Maintaining its strong credit ratings
9. Selective use of credit enhancement or liquidity

A ~~secondary~~ objective of interest rate management is to minimize the uncertainty and variability of interest expense. Thus, although variable-rate bonds generally have lower interest costs than fixed-rate bonds, they also introduce volatility risk into the University's debt service obligations. ~~It is expected to be advantageous to include variable rate debt in the University's capital structure at high points in the economic interest rate cycle. However, it is not anticipated that variable rate exposure would exceed 40% of overall outstanding debt at any point in time.~~

Interest rate exposure may also be managed through the use of interest rate swaps and other derivative products. Such products provide an indirect, rather than direct, means of managing interest risk. If, after thorough analysis, a derivative product is clearly beneficial in reducing debt service cost and/or interest rate risk, such a product may be used with approval of the Board of Trustees. Swaps and other derivatives used as part of the debt portfolio must be tied directly to University debt instruments and may not be used for speculative purposes.

Each proposed new debt issuance will be evaluated in the context of the interest rate environment at that time, debt products available in the marketplace, the University's then-existing mix of outstanding obligations, and the time horizon of the projects to be financed. The potential upside and downside risks of various debt instruments and structures will be analyzed to determine the most advantageous structure to meet the University's long-term goals given the existing environment.

4. Repayment planning

All debt financing must be accompanied by a feasible plan for repayment of its principal and interest obligations. Sources of repayment may include project-specific revenues, auxiliary enterprise revenues, gift revenues, general University receipts, expense reductions, or other sources. If the financing involves variable rate debt, the repayment plan must take into consideration the impact of a change in interest rates. Pro forma projections will be based on conservative assumptions that provide reasonable comfort that the repayment obligations can be prudently managed.

In some situations, a prudent method of repayment planning will be to budget and fund a segregated Debt Service Reserve Fund. There may also be circumstances where a mandatory Debt Service Reserve Fund is included in the legal bond covenants. In cases where the use of such a reserve is planned and/or mandated, the University will incorporate the appropriate funding into its budget and will make best efforts to fulfill the funding plan.

5. Refinancing opportunities

The University will monitor its debt portfolio for refunding and/or restructuring opportunities that may arise from changes in the interest rate environment. In addition, when issuing debt for new project purposes, the University should consider any potential refunding to be issued in combination with such new project financing. A number of factors will be evaluated in making refinancing decisions, including:

1. Call features of outstanding debt
2. Rate reduction potential
3. Time beyond call to maturity
4. Call premium
5. Escrow efficiency
6. Overall market conditions

In general, a refinancing opportunity will be considered advantageous if it results in a net present value savings of 3% or greater.

6. Regulatory and tax considerations

Authority for issuance of bonds is provided by Sections 3345.11 and 3345.12 of the Ohio Revised Code. The Ohio Board of Regents has further authority to approve debt for which the general receipts of the University are pledged as security. University management will be responsible to seek and obtain approval by the Ohio Board of Regents in advance of a bond issuance.

Bonds issued by Miami University are often eligible for tax-exemption, and therefore subject to IRS rules and regulations governing tax-exempt obligations. University management will use its best efforts to comply with the appropriate IRS rules and regulations. Specifically, management will remain cognizant of IRS regulations concerning arbitrage, private use, and unrelated business income.

7. Approvals

Debt in amounts of $2,000,000 or less must be approved by the Vice President for Finance and Business Services.

Debt in excess of $2,000,000 and any debt that is publicly issued must be approved by the Vice President for Finance and Business Services, the Finance and Audit Committee, and the Board of Trustees.

ADDENDUM A DEBT CAPACITY RATIOS

MIAMI UNIVERSITY DEBT POLICY

Through the 1997 enactment of Senate Bill 6, a standardized method for monitoring the financial health of Ohio's state-assisted college and universities was established. Key ratios monitored by the Ohio Board of Regents (OBOR) are:

- Viability Ratio: expendable net assets divided by total debt. This ratio is a measure of an institution's ability to retire its long-term debt using available current resources. A viability ratio in excess of 100% indicates that the institution has expendable fund balances in excess of its plant debt. A viability ratio above 60% is considered good, while a ratio below 30% may be a cause for concern.
- Primary Reserve Ratio: expendable net assets divided by total operating expenses. This ratio is a measure of an institution's ability to continue operating at current levels without future revenues. A primary reserve ratio of 10% or greater is considered good, while a ratio below 5% may be a cause for concern.
- Net Income Ratio: change in total assets divided by total revenues. This ratio measures an institution's financial status in terms of current year operations. A negative net income ratio results when an institution's current year expenses exceed its current year revenues. A positive ratio indicates the institution experienced a net increase in current year fund balances.
- Composite Score: weighted summary statistic of the above three ratios. Each ratio is assigned a score of 1-5 based on predetermined ranges and then weighted, with 30% to the viability ratio, 50% to the primary reserve ratio, and 20% to the net income ratio. The scoring process emphasizes the need for campuses to have strong expendable fund balances, manageable plant debt, and a positive operating balance. The highest possible composite score is 5.0. The minimum acceptable composite score is 1.75. A score at or below this minimum level for two consecutive years will result in being placed on fiscal watch by OBOR.

In addition ~~to the above ratios~~, the major rating agencies such as Moody's, Fitch, and Standard & Poor's track a series of financial indicators including but not limited to:

- Annual debt service as a percent of operating expenses: A ratio greater than 10% generally represents an excessive debt burden, while 7% is considered to be moderately high.
- Operating Margin: operating surplus as a percent of revenues (excluding gift revenues)
- Debt Service Coverage: operating surplus divided by debt service expense

MIAMI UNIVERSITY DEBT POLICY

The primary objective of Miami University's use of debt is to optimally allocate debt as a limited capital resource in funding carefully selected projects that further the University's mission and fulfill its strategic objectives. This policy sets forth the goals and strategies the University expects to utilize to accomplish this objective.

GOALS

1. To prudently use debt as a source of capital to fund capital projects that relate to the strategic priorities of the University but have limited opportunities for financing from other sources such as state appropriations, philanthropic giving, or grants.
2. To manage the University's overall debt level to maintain a credit rating in the "AA" category, according to the major rating agencies.
3. To maintain a weighted average net cost of capital below 5.0% by carefully structuring financings to take advantage of interest rate cycles and available financing vehicles.
4. To maintain debt capacity ratios as outlined by the State of Ohio (see addendum) that allow the University to achieve its credit rating, cost of capital, and long-term viability objectives.
5. To assure that projects financed have a prudent plan for debt repayment.

DEBT MANAGEMENT STRATEGIES

1. Identification of capital projects

Major capital projects are prioritized through the University's long-range capital plan. The capital plan is constructed within the framework of the University's financial plan and is aligned annually with the University's budget. Sources of funding for capital projects include state capital appropriations, gifts or grants, annual capital renewal or replacement budgets, internal reserves, and bond financing.

Bond financing, because of its long-term financial implications, is to be used strategically on projects for which other funding sources are limited, and will be coordinated when possible so that multiple projects may be accommodated in a single borrowing to create efficiencies.

The planning process undergoes extensive review and discussion with University management and the Board of Trustees' Finance and Audit Committee. As each individual project in the capital plan is initiated, the project and its financing plan is reviewed by the Finance and Audit Committee and approved by the Board of Trustees. Any future obligations resulting from the financing plans, such as debt service payments or outstanding gift pledges, are reviewed annually with the Finance and Audit Committee as part of the University's normal budget planning to ensure that the financing plans remain viable. If they need to be adjusted, they are adjusted within the framework of the overall financial plan for the University.

2. Debt capacity

Miami University's debt capacity can be defined as:

1. a level of outstanding debt at which the University can maintain its high credit ratings and a low cost of borrowing, and
2. a practical level of annual debt service payments that the University can comfortably cover from predictable sources of repayment.

The University intends to maintain underlying credit ratings in the "AA" category in order to issue debt at relatively low interest rates. The University does not intend to issue the maximum possible levels of debt, but intends to maintain a comfortable reserve of debt capacity. A prudent level of debt provides access to capital but does not unduly burden the institution's budget with annual repayment obligations. Furthermore, a moderate and consistent debt burden also serves the goal of intergenerational equity; one generation of tuition-payers is not overburdened at the expense of another generation.

Debt capacity is generally measured through ratio analysis. Ratios provide a consistent measure of the debt level carried by an institution in relation to its balance sheet, revenues and expenses. Ratio analysis provides insight into debt capacity from two perspectives: by monitoring trends over time and in comparison to benchmarks. It is the intent of the University to maintain a strong financial position that will support a favorable ratio analysis measured against national standards, peer and in-state comparisons, and credit rating agency medians. Some of the key ratios currently utilized for evaluating debt capacity are attached as Addendum A. Ratios should be reviewed with the Board of Trustees at the end of each fiscal year as part of the financial update and prior to new bond issuance with pro-forma data.

3. Interest rate management

The primary objective of interest rate management is to make strategic and structural decisions on each University financing in order to minimize the aggregate interest expense to the University. After reviewing historical long-term interest rate cycles and industry benchmarks, the University has established a goal of maintaining a weighted average net cost of capital below 5.0%. It is recognized that this goal may not be achievable in very high interest rate environments; in such situations, the goal will be to achieve the lowest cost of capital available under the circumstances. Debt portfolio considerations for maintaining a low cost of capital include:

1. Issuing fixed vs. variable rate debt
2. Maturity length and principal amortization
3. Call provisions and the use of premium and discount coupons
4. Managing interest rate cycles
5. Selective use of interest rate swaps and other derivative products
6. Diversifying the universe of its potential investors
7. Negotiated vs. competitive sales
8. Maintaining its strong credit ratings
9. Selective use of credit enhancement or liquidity

A secondary objective of interest rate management is to minimize the uncertainty and variability of interest expense. Thus, although variable-rate bonds generally have lower interest costs than fixed-rate bonds, they also introduce volatility risk into the University's debt service obligations.

Interest rate exposure may also be managed through the use of interest rate swaps and other derivative products. Such products provide an indirect, rather than direct, means of managing interest risk. If, after thorough analysis, a derivative product is clearly beneficial in reducing debt service cost and/or interest rate risk, such a product may be used with approval of the Board of Trustees. Swaps and other derivatives used as part of the debt portfolio must be tied directly to University debt instruments and may not be used for speculative purposes.

Each proposed new debt issuance will be evaluated in the context of the interest rate environment at that time, debt products available in the marketplace, the University's then-existing mix of outstanding obligations, and the time horizon of the projects to be financed. The potential upside and downside risks of various debt instruments and structures will be analyzed to determine the most advantageous structure to meet the University's long-term goals given the existing environment.

4. Repayment planning

All debt financing must be accompanied by a feasible plan for repayment of its principal and interest obligations. Sources of repayment may include project-specific revenues, auxiliary enterprise revenues, gift revenues, general University receipts, expense reductions, or other sources. If the financing involves variable rate debt, the repayment plan must take into consideration the impact of a change in interest rates. Pro forma projections will be based on conservative assumptions that provide reasonable comfort that the repayment obligations can be prudently managed.

In some situations, a prudent method of repayment planning will be to budget and fund a segregated Debt Service Reserve Fund. There may also be circumstances where a mandatory Debt Service Reserve Fund is included in the legal bond covenants. In cases where the use of such a reserve is planned and/or mandated, the University will incorporate the appropriate funding into its budget and will make best efforts to fulfill the funding plan.

5. Refinancing opportunities

The University will monitor its debt portfolio for refunding and/or restructuring opportunities that may arise from changes in the interest rate environment. In addition, when issuing debt for new project purposes, the University should consider any potential refunding to be issued in combination with such new project financing. A number of factors will be evaluated in making refinancing decisions, including:

1. Call features of outstanding debt
2. Rate reduction potential
3. Time beyond call to maturity
4. Call premium
5. Escrow efficiency
6. Overall market conditions

Land Acknowledgement

Miami University is located within the traditional homelands of the Myaamia and Shawnee people, who along with other indigenous groups ceded these lands to the United States in the first Treaty of Greenville in 1795. The Miami people, whose name our university carries, were forcibly removed from these homelands in 1846.

In 1972, a relationship between Miami University and the Miami Tribe of Oklahoma began and evolved into a reciprocal partnership, including the creation of the Myaamia Center at Miami University in 2001. The work of the Myaamia Center serves the Miami Tribe community and is dedicated to the revitalization of Miami language and culture and to restoring that knowledge to the Myaamia people.

Miami University and the Miami Tribe are proud of this work and of the more than 140 Myaamia students who have attended Miami since 1991 through the Myaamia Heritage Award Program.

Letter from the Vice President for Institutional Diversity and Inclusion

Greetings Miamians, and congratulations to our recent graduates!!

We hope everyone has an opportunity to enjoy some rest this summer.

End of semester is always a busy time, and a time to recognize and celebrate the efforts and accomplishments across Miami to make it a more inclusive community for all. As we closed out the Spring semester, we were excited to come together for our annual University Diversity and Inclusion Awards celebration—scroll down to find out more about the awards and recipients.

This edition, which coincides with LGBTQ+ Pride Month, features a Staff Spotlight on Dr. April Callis, Associate Director of LGBTQ+ Initiatives in the Center for Student Diversity and Inclusion, who has led efforts to ensure Miami participates in the Campus Pride Index and who contributes so much to efforts to make Miami more inclusive. In the Faculty Spotlight, we invite you to learn about Zach Soulliard, Assistant Professor in the Department of Psychology. Dr. Soulliard directs BISQue Lab, which is dedicated to research focused on stigma and mental health disparities among those who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans/nonbinary, and all other queer (LGBTQ+) identities.

We are excited about new initiatives next year, including the Faculty Fellows Program, which is the result of a collaboration between the Office for Institutional Diversity and Inclusion and the Provost's Office. In the Institutional Spotlight, this edition features Faculty Fellow projects for the coming year. We are excited to welcome Dr. Fauzia Ahmed, Dr. Anita Mannur, and Dr. Haifei Shi as inaugural Faculty Fellows, who will collaborate with the Office for Institutional Diversity and Inclusion and the Provost's Office on projects connected to building community among international faculty (Ahmed) and mentoring faculty (Mannur and Shi). Our student spotlight is on Centoria McConnell, who founded the student dance team MoXion, and Camber Hayes, who was recently honored as the Arthur Ashe Jr. Sports Scholar Awards female winner of the year.

As you explore opportunities this summer, we invite you to learn more about programming planned for LGBTQ+ Pride Month and Juneteenth. On June 12, the Office of Institutional Diversity and Inclusion and the Association of Black Faculty and Staff will be hosting the panel "Juneteenth in Modern Times." Featured panelists will be Dr. Vicka Bell-Robinson, Dr. Amber Franklin, and Dr. Darryl Rice. We are intentionally doing this on June 12 to ensure everyone--including those organizing and participating in the programming-- will have June 19 (Juneteenth) to commemorate the holiday away from work. On June 19, we will also share links to recordings of recent Juneteenth lectures and panels on our social media.

As we continue to navigate a complex environment nationally, we continue to work tirelessly to ensure Miami is ever more inclusive. Thank you for all you do to reflect and advance Miami's commitment to an inclusive community.

As always, we welcome your feedback and suggestions and invite you to reach out to OIDI staff.

The Asian/Asian American Faculty Staff Association is currently building traction with the community and is seeking to provide opportunities for individuals to connect in a more casual atmosphere and then use that leverage to continue the growth and momentum of the group. If you are looking to make an impact and be a leader, this is the group for faculty and staff to join! If it is a personal passion and something they want to do to become more connected to the campus community, you are encouraged to reach out to April Robles to connect.

Association of Black Faculty and Staff President: Seth Seward, Assistant Director, Alumni Relations

The Association of Black Faculty and Staff stands for diversity, equality, solidarity, and change for campus at large, students, and the Oxford community. As an organization, they will engage and participate in any efforts that are meant to educate and provide clarity of ideas of ending racism and discrimination. The Association of Black Faculty and Staff serves as a safe place for African American or black individuals to come together and meet. This is accomplished through general body meetings and social events. If something arises on campus that impacts the community, they gather together to discuss and hash out solutions in a safe space. The group also works to serve as a support system and network for students, staff, and faculty. While there are no current community events planned, anyone interested in becoming a member is encouraged to complete the membership formstack to connect.

Association of Latinx Faculty and Staff President: José Amador, Associate Professor, Global and Intercultural Studies (Latin American, Latino/a, and Caribbean Studies)

The primary goal of the Association of Latinx Faculty and Staff primary is to support and raise awareness about the Latinx faculty and staff. They aim to build networks between departments and units, faculty and students, and Miami university and the community at large. The group also strives to raise the visibility of the Latin American Studies Program and the nearby Latinx community. Additionally, to keep everyone informed about everything Latinx-related, which is done through a weekly "bulletin" with news and events.

This organization has been formed by employees of Miami University (Hamilton, Middletown, and Oxford campuses) to foster Latinx, Latin American and Caribbean, and Ibero, Luso-American representation, improve work conditions, and enrich the social and cultural environment for all Miami faculty, staff, and students. Individuals interested in connecting can reach out to José Amador.

Classified Personnel Advisory Committee

President: Angela Coffey Brown, Administrative Assistant, Enrollment Management and Student Success

The Classified Personnel Advisory Committee is established for the purpose of advising the President, Vice Presidents, and Human Resources on matters of interest and concern to classified staff members in the context of the whole university community. The group accomplishes this by bringing issues/concerns/proposals to administration for input and/or action, serving (individual members) on university committees, and providing feedback/input on matters brought to the committee for review. Additionally, the Classified Personnel Advisory Committee is established to provide an institutional venue or forum in which matters of interest or concern to classified staff members can be discussed, considered, and/or moved forward through appropriate channels. Anyone interested in connecting with or joining the committee can contact Angela Coffey Brown or reach out to the CPAC email.

This is accomplished through connecting with colleagues from diverse cultural, ethnic, racial, linguistic, and educational backgrounds, and broadening perspectives, welcoming diversity, and experiencing inclusion at Miami. The group also seeks to listen, understand, and identify the needs of international faculty/staff, address the concerns and needs of the university, provide relevant resources as needed, and help international faculty/staff. The main goal of the group is to support one another in professional development at the university.

Interested individuals can reach out to IFSAM's president Jacqueline Rioja Velarde, communications chair Ebru Dirsal-Duffield, or to the IFSA email.

Queer and Trans Faculty and Staff Association

President: Emily Cluen, Resident Director, Office of Resident Life

The group is currently working on establishing and maintaining a larger group to allow for more capacity moving forward. For more details or to join our listserv, email QTFSA@MiamiOH.edu. The group is looking to host more events moving forward to connect with more folks on campus and provide more networking opportunities. Interested individuals can email the group's email address to connect.

Unclassified Personnel Advisory Committee

President: Sarah Persinger, Associate Director FBS Technology Operations & Support

The Unclassified Personnel Advisory Committee was created in 1983 to advise the University Administration (specifically the president and vice presidents) on matters of interest and concern to unclassified personnel. Committee members are selected to reflect a balance of gender, race/ethnicity, campus, division, level in the organization, responsibilities, years of university service, and any other characteristics that help to achieve a balance of knowledge, experience, viewpoints, interests and talents. The group's most recent endeavor was focussing on wellness and bringing back access and funding to wellness areas on campus. Individuals interested in joining are encouraged to attend the monthly virtual meetings, which take place on the second Tuesday of each month. Interested individuals can also connect with Sarah Persinger for more information.

Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Campus Spotlight

Miami Spotlight:

Inclusive Excellence Faculty Fellows Program

Inclusive Excellence university-wide efforts are continuously responding to campus community needs and our common goal of building a more inclusive Miami for all. This goal cannot be accomplished by one single unit or office, but rather must be a community-wide undertaking across campuses in order to facilitate lasting change on campus. The Inclusive Excellence Faculty Fellows Program reflects our inclusive excellence and holistic, inclusive approach.

In the 2021-2022 academic cycle, the Office of Institutional Diversity and Inclusion (OIDI) focused on restructuring and reorganizing internally, and on centering university-wide efforts that contribute to capacity-building, systemic change, and cultural transformation. As a part of these efforts, OIDI in partnership with the Office of the Provost, launched the Inclusive Excellence Faculty Fellows Program.

The Inclusive Excellence Faculty Fellows Program was established in recognition of the efforts and role of faculty in fostering a more diverse, inclusive, and equitable Miami, this program is a professional development opportunity for faculty to deepen their knowledge and expertise as leaders in actively advancing change. Fellows will collaborate with OIDI in the Fellow's chosen area, as well as collaborate more broadly on programming and initiatives, to advance Miami's DEI commitments.

Fellows may propose developing and implementing community-building, pedagogical, mentoring, professional development, networking, initiatives, or programming that will advance Inclusive excellence at Miami. Fellows must clearly show how the proposed project benefits students (graduate and/or undergraduate), faculty, and/or staff across units. The fellowship period will serve as a professional development opportunity for university-wide inclusive excellence.

The 2023 Inclusive Excellence Faculty Fellows are (listed alphabetically by last name): Fauzia Ahmed, Anita Mannur, and Haifei Shi. Below is a breakdown of their individual goals and the projects they will be conducting during their year-long tenure in the program.

Learn about what our Faculty Fellows will be focusing on:

Building Community Among International Faculty

Fauzia Erfan Ahmed, Ph.D.

Associate Professor, Department of Sociology and Gerontology

Women's, Gender, & Sexuality Studies Program

Fauzia Erfan Ahmed, Ph.D., is an Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology and Gerontology in the College of Arts and Science. Ahmed came to the United States many decades ago fleeing from a civil war in her country. As an international student at Harvard, she has first-hand experience of what it means to adjust to a different culture and educational system. Ahmed became a US citizen in 2011. "Miami needs to effectively prepare students to live in a globalized world; this means that we need to explore ways of recruiting and retaining more international faculty, staff, and students." Ahmed's research focuses on various aspects of gender empowerment: masculinity and microcredit, gender and Islam, gender governance, globalization, and the sweatshop industry. Her most recent project is gender and empowerment amongst adolescents in the Rohingya refugee camps. She is currently writing a book manuscript, Microcredit and Masculinity, which is under contract with the University of California Press.

Ahmed was inspired to apply for the Fellows program as an opportunity to "improve things for international faculty, and how this relates to Miami's plan of becoming a premier global university. I also wanted to support Dr. Alcalde. She has created many exciting initiatives and I feel that she's trying to transform the culture and create an inclusive climate. As a Fellow, I plan to explore the DEI concerns of international women faculty at Miami and provide policy and strategy recommendations to the administration."

Tenured and Tenure-Track Faculty Mentoring Program

Anita Mannur, Ph.D.

Professor, Department of English

Haifei Shi, Ph.D.

Professor, Department of Biology

Anita Mannur, Ph.D., is a Professor in the Department of English in the College of Arts and Science. Mannur has been at Miami since 2009, and has always had a strong interest in mentorship. She chose comparative literature for her studies because she was intrigued by its focus on thinking about literature across racial and ethnic traditions. Mannur's book titled Intimate Eating Publics was published in 2022 and is about trying to think about the way food allows certain intimacies to emerge that would not have otherwise: "We often think about eating together as a way to build family, but what if we think about it in a way that is not so heteronormatively imagined? What if sharing food allows strangers who would never talk to one another connect over something?"

Haifei Shi, Ph.D., is a Professor for the Department of Biology in the College of Arts and Science. Professor Shi has been at Miami for 14 years and her current research focuses on the neural and hormonal control of energy metabolism, and the mechanisms of pathological conditions and related diseases such as obesity and cancer. This is an important issue for understanding and treating obesity and related disorders. The overall research goal is to investigate effects of sex differences in the regulation of energy metabolism. Graduate and undergraduate students in Professor Shi's laboratory use physiological, biochemical, cellular, and molecular techniques in their projects. Her work includes increased representation of female subjects, and this effort has led to interesting and insightful discoveries.

Mannur was inspired to apply for the Fellows program, as she saw the program as “a great opportunity to think about what I value as a professor and how I can try and change Miami's institutional culture.” Mannur was seeking more structure from Miami with more resources and support, and hoped the Fellows program would provide faculty with these networks. Shi was inspired to apply for the Fellows program, as she aspires to create and further a sense of faculty belonging on campus. “When I came to Miami, I had senior professors guiding me through different processes and ambiguous requirements. I received a lot of support and mentoring, and I want to provide this support to my colleagues, especially junior, woman and minority faculty members.”

The Office of Institutional Diversity and Inclusion is excited to collaborate with Faculty Fellows, in partnership with the Provost's Office, as we collectively work towards an ever more inclusive Miami. Join us in congratulating and celebrating our inaugural Faculty Fellows! Should you see opportunities for collaboration with our office of the Inclusive Excellence Faculty Fellows, please contact our office directly at oidi@miamioh.edu.

Assistant Professor, Department of Psychology

Lab Director, BISQue Lab

The BISQue Lab is dedicated to conducting research focused on stigma and mental health disparities among those who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans/nonbinary, and all other queer (LGBTQ+) identities. The aims of the BISQue Lab are to “conduct research that leads to significantly reducing the elevated rates of body image concerns and eating pathology among LGBTQ+ people” and to “conduct implementation-based research with the goal of equipping mental health providers with evidence-based, LGBTQ-affirmative treatment, specifically LGBTQ-affirmative CBT [Cognitive Behavioral Therapy].”

Lab Director Zach Soulliard, Ph.D., founded the lab in 2022. When asked about his inspirations for creating this research lab, Soulliard explained that “Ever since my own undergraduate training and especially since pursuing graduate studies in clinical psychology, a passion of mine has been to combat the mental health disparities and inequities faced by the LGBTQ+ community. My own personal experiences as a member of the community have been a significant motivator in me pursuing this work.” Soulliard further explained that the LGBTQ+ community faces a variety of stigmas, both systemically and in personal forms. Soulliard stated, “in developing the BISQue lab, my hope is to have a space that is fully dedicated to, at the broadest level, conducting LGBTQ+ psychology research.”

Currently, the BISQue lab's research is broadly examining “the relationships among body image (both negative and positive facets), eating behaviors, and overall mental health among LGBTQ+ people.” This is being accomplished through a variety of studies that are taking place within the lab. One of these studies is focusing on “the experience of trans/nonbinary populations, specifically, examining experiences related to facets of positive body image, such as body appreciation. While there is important literature being conducted focused on gender dysphoria among trans/nonbinary folks, there's significantly less research focused on what trans/nonbinary people value and respect about their bodies, as well as celebrating bodies that do not necessarily conform to cisgender body ideals and norms.”

Another study currently taking place in the BISQue lab is one that seeks to expand a more recent theory called intraminority gay community stress.” Soulliard explained that “in short, this theory posits that internal group stressors within the mainstream gay community, such as a focus on status, competition, sex, and exclusion of diversity, may explain the elevated rates of mental health concerns in this population. To date, the theory has only been studied among predominantly cisgender, sexual minority men. To further expand this theory, my lab is currently in the very early stages of testing this theory among transgender sexual minority men, inclusive of those who may identify as a man within the trans community.”

One of the BISQue lab’s goals is to conduct research that has relevant applications to benefit the LGBTQ+ community. Soulliard elaborated, “Based on my background as a clinical psychologist, most of that probably will happen in clinical spaces like psychotherapy, for example, providing knowledge and skills that mental health clinicians can implement when working with LGBTQ+ clients. I would also say on an even broader note, my hope for the BISQue lab is to shine a light on a population that has historically been ignored, or worse, pathologized in the field of psychology. By centering the experiences of those part of the LGBTQ+ community, my hope is that we can change the narrative of how psychology thinks about this minoritized population in future research.”

Soulliard’s hope is that the BISQue lab has a long-term impact not only within the field, but also within the Miami community at large. Soulliard would like the lab to have a lasting impact both within the psychology department and the university community: “There’s no other lab in the psychology department focusing exclusively on the LGBTQ+ community. In just my one year here at Miami, I’ve been so excited by the enthusiasm and excitement that many have expressed about my research. Several students have already reached out expressing interest in being part of the lab. Along with conducting research, I also hope that the BISQue Lab can serve as a safe space for LGBTQ+ students here at Miami.” Soulliard went on to explain that in his time so far at Miami, he has noticed several efforts dedicated toward inclusive excellence and building a more inclusive Miami not only for members in the LGBTQ+ community, but for those who carry other minoritized identities. He explained that it is his hope that the BISQue lab can serve as another piece in this effort and make a difference within the Miami community.

To learn more about the BISQue lab, their research, or to connect with the lab team, students are encouraged to visit the lab’s webpage and to follow the lab on Twitter for the latest information. Students interested in joining the BISQue Lab as a research assistant can reach out to the lab email (bisquelab@gmail.com).

April Callis, Ph.D.

Associate Director, LGBTQ+ Initiatives
Center for Student Diversity and Inclusion

Since its creation in 2007, the Campus Pride Index has been the leading national benchmarking tool for colleges and universities nationwide to create safer, more inclusive campus communities for LGBTQ+ students. This free online tool allows prospective students to explore a database of LGBTQ+ friendly campuses who have actively taken steps to improve the academic experience and quality of campus life for LGBTQ+ students.

Since joining Miami’s campus, April Callis, Associate Director of LGBTQ+ Initiatives in the Center for Student Diversity and Inclusion (CSDI), has led the efforts on behalf of Miami University for the Campus Pride Index. Callis’s work within CSDI centers around leading campus wide educational initiatives focused on LGBTQIA+ identities and experiences. The role also serves as an advocate for LGBTQIA+ student inclusion across campus.

Upon her arrival at Miami two years ago, Callis’s predecessor had begun putting information together but had not yet submitted to the Campus Pride Index. Callis worked to connect with campus stakeholders to discuss the work being done across campus to support Miami’s LGBTQ+ community holistically. From there, she began to process the questions and data needed to submit to the Campus Pride Index.

When asked about the significance of the Campus Pride Index for Miami and the LGBTQ+ community on campus, Callis explained “there are great things about having this ranking, and then I think there are some things that are challenging. In some ways, we are making a promise that I then want to make sure we are fulfilling to the students who see our ranking.” Callis continued noting that the Campus Pride Index allows for students to gain a holistic view of a potential campus, including what types of services may be available to them and what type of environment they can find on campus. This could include things like inclusive housing, inclusive health services, and student life on campus. Callis explained that when it comes to the Campus Pride Index, “I think it is a phenomenal recruiting tool. But I want to make sure that we’re also thinking about retention, and making sure that those experiences are matching these numbers that we have when students arrive on campus.”

Miami University was recently awarded a 4.5 out of 5 star rating on the Campus Pride Index. This rating was achieved upon the second submission to the Campus Pride Index: “The first time we submitted, Miami received a 4 star rating. From there, I created a plan based on areas that we needed to do some work. I met with a variety of stakeholders and key people across campus to discuss where we were and what efforts we could make to move towards a 4.5 star rating. Then it was a matter of putting in the work and creating relationships to create change together.”

Some areas that were addressed from the first 4 star rating included a recent campus climate survey, which was conducted by the Office of Institutional Diversity and Inclusion this spring, and the creation of a student organization for QTBIPOC (Queer Trans Black Indigenous People of Color) students. More trainings were also implemented across campus, particularly in areas like MUPD, Admissions, Athletics, Student Counseling Service, and in Health Services. Further, the CSDI started offering free and anonymous HIV testing once a month, Student Counseling Services started offering a weekly support group for LGBTQIA+ students, and an emergency fund for queer and trans students was created.

Callis went on to explain that the work put in from the campus community was a reflection of how inclusive excellence operates at Miami: “DEI work is hard. Supporting LGBTQ+ students is hard, but I say to students all the time, and I firmly believe still, that the people at Miami, the culture at Miami is to do better and to make strides in this area. I think that inclusive excellence is a conversation that I’m hearing happen around campus, and sometimes things don’t change as quickly as students wish that they would or could, but I feel like change is something that happens here... I have that belief because I’ve seen it happen with things in the time that I’ve been here. It’s not a mistake that we’ve moved from a 4 to 4.5 because things change, and it’s not going to be just lip service. When we get to a five star it will be once again because things change. I know that they will, because I’ve seen that appetite for change here. And yes, I work specifically with LGBTQ+ identities, but I’m seeing that around students with disabilities. I’m seeing that around students of color. I see that around campus, and it’s something that I really appreciate.”

The type of inclusive excellence Callis sees across campus is not something that happens overnight, nor is it something that takes place without campus stakeholders coming together through coalition building to work towards a common goal. As Callis and other stakeholders work together to expand systems of support across campus, Callis noted that “working towards a 5 star rating is not the finish line. The 5 star Campus Pride Index should be the floor, not the ceiling. A 5 out of 5 is no small accomplishment, and I will be grateful for the hard work it takes for us to get there; however, reaching that 5 star rating is not the finish line. It really just means we are at a place where there is a more level playing field for LGBTQ+ students. What we do with that is a much larger responsibility.”

Centoria (C.J.) McConnell

Founder, MoXion

Political Science Major; Social Justice and Inequalities Minor, Class of 2024

HBCU-styled Majorette has a rich history, originating as a type of high stepping and baton twirling that took off at historically Black colleges and universities (HBCUs). The dancing style has since morphed into a mixture of multiple styles of dancing, including jazz, hip-hop, ballet, and more to entertain audiences while honoring West-African roots and the dancers who came before them. While majorette culture combines modern and traditional styles of dance, many majorette dancers seek to reach the next generation with a strong connection to the culture that started it all. It is within this space that MoXion was founded.

MoXion (mo-shun), a student dance team founded by Centoria McConnell, is the first majorette team of its kind on Miami’s campus. MoXion’s constitution states that the purpose of the team is to showcase the extravagance and fluidity of Black cultural dancing styles (centering around Black majorette) while uplifting its members and growing their talents. Other dance teams do exist at Miami, but MoXion is the first HBCU-styled majorette team on campus. McConnell notes that, “Over time other dance teams on campus have raised the standards for getting into their teams, which excluded a lot of people who didn’t have access to the necessary training or resources to even get the opportunity to be involved. Dancing has been a big privilege for me and I realized how many people couldn’t and can’t afford it. Sometimes my parents couldn’t or would work hard trying. I wanted to create an inclusive space for the dancing styles I was looking for, and the people who want to dance but may not have been able to before.”

McConnell's inspirations for forming MoXion stem from her long-time passion for dancing: "I started dancing when I was four years old. Dancing has always been a passion of mine and is something that really made me happy." McConnell's dance experience began with jazz, contemporary, traditional drill/baton dance, and hip hop. McConnell shared that she "had a lot of Black and African American instructors who incorporated a variety of practices from the African diaspora."

Through her time in dance, McConnell has experienced a variety of spaces, noting that she "moved around a lot as a child. I have been in all-black cultural dance spaces and all-white dance spaces. When I moved to Ohio from Missouri I started cheer because I found that the same type of dancing I was looking for wasn't available to me at my school. When I began looking at colleges, a lot of the cheer teams I researched had a weight requirement and I could tell I wouldn't fit in. It made me unsure as to whether or not I could continue with dance or cheer in college."

Upon her arrival at Miami, McConnell was able to witness some of the different dance teams on campus at football and basketball games; however, their style was not within the realm that she was searching for. "I was looking for more of an HBCU-style majorette. I sought out Vision, which does a lot of mixing of dance styles, but I realized it still wasn't the same." McConnell realized that the majorette style of dancing she was seeking did not yet exist on campus, which led to her founding the student dance team MoXion in October 2022.

The team's first operational semester came to a close at the end of the spring 2023 term. McConnell noted that bringing the team together has been an incredibly unique experience, as there are dancers from all backgrounds on the team: "I have people who have never been on a dance team, some who have danced before, or others who have been in cheer. Everyone has had to get comfortable with one another and the variety of dance styles. From tryouts to now, I have seen a lot of growth and improvement." McConnell went on to explain that she has been very happy with how MoXion has come together, noting, "I am so proud of the girls on my team. I'm grateful for everyone that has continued to practice and commit to it. There is no team or organization that really functions as we do; we don't have a coach, we are not a Miami University official dance team, and we are the first of our kind."

As MoXion continues to develop and expand its reach, McConnell is excited about future plans and progress. McConnell expressed that while everyone on the team has individual goals, MoXion as an organization would like to eventually "get more uniforms and do a variety of performances. We would also like to march at the homecoming parade this fall." McConnell also noted that every semester, MoXion will be conducting a dance workshop. The first took place in March as a "Heelz" dance workshop co-hosted with the Illustrious Xi Rho Chapter of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Incorporated. McConnell went on to explain that "our general dance workshops are not strictly traditionally HBCU style majorette. Every semester we will have a workshop called 'Move like MoXion' which is where we will explicitly teach the majorette-styled dances." Overall, McConnell expressed appreciation for all the support that MoXion has received to date. She expressed that "MoXion is here to stay, so expect more from us in the future!"

Camber Hayes

Biology/Pre-Med Major, Class of 2024

Each year, Diverse: Issues in Higher Education sponsors the Arthur Ashe Jr. Sports Scholar Awards. These awards were designed to "honor students of color who have excelled in the classroom as well as on the athletic field. Inspired by tennis legend Arthur Ashe, Jr.'s commitment to education as well as his love for the game of tennis, U.S. colleges and universities are invited to participate in this annual awards program by nominating their outstanding sports scholars." In addition to their athletic ability and academic performance, Arthur Ashe Jr. Sports Scholars must demonstrate a commitment to community service and student leadership.

In April, the 2023 Arthur Ashe Jr. Sports Scholar Awards were announced with Camber Hayes being recognized as the female winner for the year. Recently, Hayes met with a member of our staff to discuss her accomplishments along with her hard work and dedication that have made her an excellent recipient of this award.

Hayes grew up in Bowie, Maryland, where she and her three siblings all played soccer. Hayes described this as a unique bonding experience for her family: "It's funny because my parents didn't play soccer. My older brother just started and we all just followed after him, so it was really funny that we all became so dedicated to soccer. My parents grew with the addition of sports and so it was a really good bonding thing for us all to do."

Hayes herself has been playing soccer since she was four years old and has always had a strong dedication to the game. Playing the game throughout her childhood and into adulthood has been a long standing passion for her. Hayes came to play at Miami after recruiters witnessed her talent at a tournament game in Maryland and connected with her to arrange a visit to the campus. Hayes explained that before her visit, she had been unfamiliar with Miami University; however, her parents encouraged her to explore the campus. Hayes was glad she did: “I immediately felt welcomed, particularly by the coaching staff. I was able to meet my now teammates, along with some of the professors on campus, and I felt like this was it. I was also really impressed with the personal development Miami’s athletics promised and has followed through on. They’ve really aided in my development, both as a person and as a player.”

In addition to a phenomenal soccer career, Hayes maintains a strong dedication toward the betterment of the community. When she is not studying for her classes or spending time at practice, Hayes spends her time giving back to the community: “It feels good to be able to give back to others. All through middle and high school, I volunteered through my church to help make and distribute healthy lunches for people in need in my area. I’ve also volunteered at the hospital, where I usually spend time helping serve meals and giving the patients someone to connect and talk with.”

When asked how it felt to be awarded the 2023 Arthur Ashe Jr. Female Sports Scholar Award, Hayes explained that the experience has been surreal. “I didn’t think I had any chance of doing it. When I was named a finalist, I thought it was cool to even be considered, because every other nominee had outstanding experiences. To see that I actually won was amazing. Everyone who has supported me have come together in their own ways in celebration. My teammates had a party for me and my family and professors have all been reaching out to me as well. It’s been a great feeling.” Hayes expressed her recognition as the 2023 Arthur Ashe Jr. Female Sports Scholar has been a reflection of her time and experiences at Miami, noting that the support and encouragement she has received here has allowed her to thrive in her success.

As Hayes continues her education and sports career, she works towards becoming a veterinarian in hopes of working with larger animals. Hayes continues to dedicate herself to her sport and to her community, constantly working for the betterment of herself and those around her.

Capacity Building

Across the Divide Conference

The Across the Divide (ATD) Conference is the premier conference for faculty, staff, and students at Miami University to invest in conversations about inclusive excellence, with a goal to promote a deeper community understanding of the key issues related to inclusion, best practices, research, and community building to further the institution's core values. The theme for the 2023 conference was, "Leading Through Innovation and Creativity for Transformative Inclusion." This theme allowed us to explore our innovative spirit and creative outlets as forums for effective positive change in our community and celebrating diversity.

We had the distinct privilege of hosting Dr. Ronald A. Crutcher, a previous Provost of Miami University and two time president at two other institutions come and be the keynote for the conference. This year's conference also had some unique pieces due in part to great partnerships with colleagues across the institution. First and foremost, we want to thank the Marcum Hotel and Conference Center for sponsoring the entire space for this conference. It allowed attendees to have a great experience while staying in the same building throughout the day for conference sessions. Next, we would like to thank the President's Office for their support in securing Dr. Ronald A. Crutcher as our keynote. He was able to inspire our community to see the ways in which leadership can show up through relationship building and encouraged us to build those connections now. Global Initiatives was also able to realign their Cesar Chavez Celebration to align with the conference to kick-off the entire experience and allow our community to celebrate Cesar Chavez's legacy as part of ATD this year with Latinx poet Manuel Iris lecture and poetry writing workshop. Lastly, the College of Creative Arts worked with us to bring four international artists and activists connected to the Electric Root Festival to augment ATD and amplify their efforts to engage the campus community more at the Electric Root Festival. These invaluable partnerships allowed ATD this year to be a resounding success with 65 faculty, 145 staff, 22 undergraduate, and 25 graduate students in attendance for a total of 257 attendees. We also had 46 faculty, staff, and student presenters with 16 conference sessions on topics ranging from story circles to inclusive marketing to be in conversation about best practices and innovative research to support our mission to be a more inclusive community.

Reimagining the Academy: Building Communities for Access and Transformational Change

Miami University, Kent State University, and Ohio University have joined forces to form a collaborative conference: Reimagining the Academy: Building Communities for Access and Transformational Change. This new alliance will allow the universities to come together for one conference that will share expertise and leverage their strengths.

Reimagining the Academy will take place October 18-19, 2023 in the Kent Student Center. Virtual engagement opportunities will also be available.

Registration will be free to faculty, staff and students at each of the collaborating institutions.

Keynote speaker and Miami alum, Carol Anderson, Ph.D., will speak on October 19th. Dr. Anderson is a professor of African American Studies at Emory University and is the author of several bestselling books including The Second: Race and Guns in a Fatally Unequal America (2020), One Person, No Vote: How Voter Suppression Is Destroying Our Democracy (2018) and the critically-acclaimed #1 bestseller White Rage (2016).

Those interested in joining the conference listserv to receive up-to-date information regarding announcements, registration, important dates and more should visit www.kent.edu/reimagining. Additional questions can be sent to arconference@kent.edu

Religious Observances and Inclusive Scheduling

As we enter the summer season, the Office of Institutional Diversity and Inclusion (OIDI) encourages all Miami community members to consult the full list of Religious Observances and Inclusive Scheduling dates on our website. Below we highlight a few key religious holidays and observances, including a description of the holiday, best practices, and customary greetings to support our active investment in fostering an inclusive campus community.

Please note that these are not all of the holidays that are taking place in the summer, nor is this a fully inclusive list.

June 28-29* - Eid al-Adha (Islam)

- Description: Eid al-Adha celebrates the Quranic tale of Ibrahim’s willingness to sacrifice Isamil as an act of obedience to Allah. It is also known as the feast of sacrifice. Many Muslims will celebrate Eid al-Adha by participating in prayers, mosque services, and exchanging greetings and gifts. The tradition for Eid al-Adha involves slaughtering an animal and sharing the meat in three equal parts. The meat is meant to be a good deed, and is meant to be shared with three groups: family, friends and relatives, and the poor.
- Best Practices: When providing food at functions, please consider foods that are Halal. We also recommend avoiding scheduling deadlines or activities on these days since this is a time of celebration and prayer.
- Customary Greetings: “Eid Mubarak” (MOO-bah-ROK) or “Happy Eid”

Jul 26-Jul 27* - Tish B’Av (Judaism)

- Description: Tish B’Av is a day of mourning to commemorate many tragedies that have befallen Jewish people, many occurring on the ninth of Av. Tisha B’Av marks the end of the three weeks between dire straits and is regarded as the saddest day in the Jewish calendar, and it is thus believed to be a day which is destined for tragedy. The observance of the day includes five prohibitions, most notable of which is a 25-hour fast. The Book of Lamentations, which mourns the destruction of Jerusalem, is read in the synagogue, followed by the recitation of kinnot, liturgical dirges that lament the loss of the Temples and Jerusalem.
- Best Practices: Please consider the practice of fasting when scheduling any events, “lunch meetings,” or scheduling lengthy presentations. Not all will fast or take time off, but they may still observe in various ways. We also recommend avoiding scheduling deadlines or activities on these days since this is a time of mourning and prayer.
- Customary Greetings: It is customary to avoid greeting people on Tisha B’av, due to the solemn nature of the day.

Note: “*” denotes holidays that start sundown the day before. Please note that individual practices may vary.

We also encourage the use of our Religious Observances and Inclusive Scheduling calendar to provide guidance and help avoid scheduling important events, activities, and deadlines on holidays observed by members of the Miami community. Should you or a member of your team have any questions or concerns on how to best utilize this information or on appropriate accommodations, please contact the Office of Institutional Diversity and Inclusion or the Office of Equity and Equal Opportunity.
